

Report of the Secretary-General

Supplementary Information¹

I. List of responsibilities of the focal points for multilingualism

- (1) providing support to the head of Department or Office in implementing relevant mandates and ensuring that multilingualism is taken into account in the work plans and daily activities of the Department or Office;
- (2) disseminating the policies and guidelines introduced by the Coordinator for Multilingualism and promoting greater awareness of relevant mandates supporting multilingualism within the work environment of their respective Department or Office;
- (3) monitoring and reporting periodically on progress made in implementation of the mandates relating to multilingualism as well as on outstanding issues and/or obstacles encountered in the promotion of multilingualism;
- (4) monitoring compliance of public departmental websites with the guidelines for the creation and maintenance of United Nations websites established by the Department of Public Information;
- (5) contributing to the development and realization of short and long-term multilingualism targets;
- (6) seeking creative solutions and measures for implementation of the General Assembly's mandates including by collaborating and exchanging best practices with other departments and offices and by establishing partnerships with external entities, including Member States and academic institutions;
- (7) attending and participating in periodic meetings of focal points to assess progress achieved, identify remaining obstacles and discuss, where appropriate, policies and approaches.

¹ Please note that the information contained in Annexes II to VIII gives a general overview of the UN web presence (including websites and social media). It focuses on Departments and Offices which either manage a large number of websites, such as the Department of Public Information, or maintain a strong presence in the field.
