Meetarbhan (Mauritius), have developed a format for the discussions at the fifteenth meeting of the Consultative Process (see annex I) and have proposed a provisional agenda for the meeting (see annex II).
3. The areas of concentration for the discussion panel on the topic “The role of seafood in global food security” are presented in annex III and are intended to identify important issues that the discussion panel may wish to consider, in particular by reference to the annual report of the Secretary-General on oceans and the law of the sea (to be issued as A/69/71).

Annex III

Proposed areas of concentration for the discussion panel on the topic “The role of seafood in global food security”

Information contained in the report of the Secretary-General

1. The General Assembly decided, in paragraph 274 of resolution 68/70 of 9 December 2013 that, in its deliberations on the report of the Secretary-General on oceans and the law of the sea, the fifteenth meeting of the United Nations Open-ended Informal Consultative Process on Oceans and the Law of the Sea would focus its discussions on the role of seafood in global food security. The report of the Secretary-General to the sixty-ninth session of the General Assembly (A/69/71) provides background information for the discussion panel on “The role of seafood in global food security”.

Discussion panel segments

2. In considering the possible approaches for structuring the discussion panel segments in relation to the topic of focus, it may be recalled that the General Assembly, in resolution 68/70, recognized the role of the Consultative Process as a unique forum for comprehensive discussions on issues related to oceans and the law of the sea, consistent with the framework provided by the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea and chapter 17 of Agenda 21, and that the perspective of the three pillars of sustainable development should be further enhanced in the examination of the selected topics. The Assembly also recognized the primary role of the Consultative Process in integrating knowledge, the exchange of opinions among multiple stakeholders and coordination among competent agencies, and enhancing awareness of topics, including emerging issues, while promoting the three pillars of sustainable development.

3. In considering the topic of focus, it is therefore proposed that the respective panel segments concentrate their discussions on the following areas:

(a) Understanding global food security and the current role of seafood therein

4. This panel segment could elaborate on the concept of food security and provide information on the state of global food security. It could also provide scientific and technical information on the nutritional importance of various types of seafood that contribute to global food security.

(b) The role of seafood in global food security in the context of the three pillars of sustainable development

5. This panel segment could consider the economic, social and environmental aspects of the current role of seafood, including that of the seafood industry, in global food security. In this context, the panel segment could also draw attention to the pressures on the availability and utilization of seafood as food, in food production, and as a source of revenue, and their impact on global food security.

(c) Opportunities for, and challenges to, the future role of seafood in global food security

7. This panel segment could provide various perspectives on the opportunities for, and challenges to, the future role of seafood in global food security. The panel could: highlight the importance of mainstreaming seafood into global, regional and national measures on food security; consider human activities that impact the productivity of marine ecosystems and the safety of seafood, and management of such activities; underline the need for improved fisheries statistics; draw attention to potential innovations in seafood production; underscore the potential roles of aquaculture and small-scale fisheries in global food security; and consider post-harvest processing, distribution and marketing. Issues related to capacity-building and technology transfer, as well as cooperation and coordination, would be integrated throughout the panel segment.
