Ms. Beate Andrees

*Special Representative to the UN and Director of the ILO Office for the United Nations
since the 1st of June 2020*

Prior to her appointment to lead the ILO Office in New York, she worked as the Chief of the Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work Branch, based at the ILO in Geneva.

In her previous capacity, she oversaw the ILO's flagship programmes on child labour and forced labour, covering more than 60 countries across the world, and developed the vision and strategies for multi-stakeholder collaboration.

Ms. Andrees studied Political Science and History in Jena, Toronto and Berlin. She holds a PhD from the Freie University of Berlin.
