

EndFoodWaste.org is the website and campaign created and managed by Feeding the 5000 Oakland Event Manager and Zero Food Waste Forum Co-Chair Jordan Figueiredo. In the United States, 40% of our food is wasted while 1 in 6 people are food insecure and 14% of our human-made emissions come from the food we waste. Furthermore, if we were to plant trees on the land we use to grow the food we waste, we could theoretically offset 50-100% of human-made emissions. It is through the intersection of those issues, together as the socio-environmental challenge of our time, that sparked the website motto “To End Food Waste, Hunger, and Climate Change. All at the Same Time.” Bringing these 3 issues together provides greater awareness and inspiration as they are very well connected in problem and in solutions such as food waste prevention, food recovery, and composting, among other things.

EndFoodWaste.org works with organizations all over the U.S. and world via social media, events, and dialogue to reduce food waste and hunger. EndFoodWaste.org also provides easy solutions to fight food waste. Whether you are at home, at school, or at your place of business, EndFoodWaste.org provides links to the companies, organizations, reports, books, videos, articles, and tips to help you End Food Waste, Hunger, and Climate Change all at the same time. EndFoodWaste.org also informs, connects, and motivates people through its website and social media channels of @EndFoodWaste on Twitter and EndFoodWaste on Facebook.

With the pledge to join the United Nations Zero Hunger Challenge, EndFoodWaste.org now pledges to continue to elevate the food waste dialogue to revolve more around hunger and the solutions that exist to end it, permanently. Our goals are to realize a world without hunger, food waste or the associated negative impacts of climate change from it. Thank you for your support of the End Food Waste campaign and for doing what you can to end food waste, hunger, and climate change, all at the same time.
