Macroeconomic policy questions:
external debt crisis and development

Qatar: * Draft resolution

External debt crisis and development

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolution 58/203 of 23 December 2003 on external debt crisis and development, and recalling also the Monterrey Consensus, which, in particular, recognizes sustainable debt financing as an important element for mobilizing resources for public and private investment,

Recalling also the United Nations Millennium Declaration adopted on 8 September 2000,

Concerned that the current global recovery has not contributed to significant progress in the poorest countries in attaining the agreed development goals, and in solving the external debt problems of developing countries, and noting that the continuing debt and debt-servicing obligations of developing countries, in particular the heavily indebted poor developing countries, constitute an element that adversely affects their sustainable development,

Welcoming the further extension of the sunset clause of the HIPC Initiative, and convinced that the implementation of the HIPC Initiative could be enhanced by streamlining of conditionality, in particular the elimination of structural and micro-conditions, and in this regard emphasizing the need to ensure that debt relief does not replace other sources of financing, and in this regard welcoming also the call in the Communiqué issued by the Joint International Monetary Fund/World Bank Development Committee of 2 October 2004 on all creditors to participate in the Heavily Indebted Poor Countries Initiative,

- 1. Takes note of the report of the Secretary-General;1
- 2. Reaffirms the determination, as expressed in the United Nations Millennium Declaration, to deal comprehensively and effectively with the debt problems of developing countries;
- 3. Emphasizes that all creditors and debtors must share the responsibility for preventing and resolving unsustainable debt situations;
- 4. Stresses that debt relief can play a key role in liberating resources that should be directed towards activities consistent with poverty eradication, sustained economic growth and sustainable development and with the achievement of the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the Millennium Declaration, and in this regard urges countries to direct those resources freed through debt relief, in particular through debt cancellation and reduction, towards these objectives;

- 5. Stresses also that debt sustainability depends on a confluence of many factors at the international and national levels, and underscores that no single indicator should be used to make definitive judgements about debt sustainability, and in this regard emphasizes that country-specific circumstances should be taken into account in debt sustainability analyses;
- 6. Reiterates the call contained in the Millennium Declaration on developed countries to implement the enhanced programme of debt relief for the heavily indebted poor countries, which requires additional financial resources,
- 7. Notes with great concern that after reaching the completion point the HIPC Initiative beneficiary countries have not been able to achieve debt sustainability, and in this regard welcomes recent initiatives to consider a more comprehensive write-off of the official debt of HIPCs and other equally poor countries, including debt owed to multilateral financial institutions;
- 8. Recognizes the continued efforts of the HIPC to improve their domestic policies and economic management, and in this regard calls upon all creditors to encourage these efforts through further participation in the delivery of debt relief, to ensure adequate and sufficiently concessional financing by international financing institutions and the donor community;

- 9. Stresses the importance of continued flexibility with regard to the eligibility criteria for the enhanced Heavily Indebted Poor Countries

 Initiative and the need to keep the computational procedures and assumptions underlying debt sustainability analysis under review;
- 10. Stresses the need for all creditors, including the Paris and London Clubs and other relevant forums, to pursue, where appropriate, debt relief measures vigorously and expeditiously;
- 11. Notes that the Evian Approach of the Paris Club can contribute to resolve with greater flexibility the debt problems of highly indebted developing countries that are not eligible for debt relief under the HIPC Initiative, and in this regard calls upon creditor countries to ensure that the debt of non-HIPC debtor countries is treated in a way that reflects their financial needs and the objective of enhancing long-lasting debt sustainability;
- 12. Calls upon donor countries to continue their efforts to raise bilateral grants to low-and middle-income developing countries, in addition to those that are accounted for by debt forgiveness, in order to ensure that debt sustainability can be attained in the medium to long term without compromising public and private investment and spending for health and education, and in this regard stresses the need to take steps to ensure that resources provided for debt relief do not detract from official development assistance resources;

- 13. Emphasizes the need for more flexibility from the international community in helping post-conflict developing countries, especially heavily indebted poor post-conflict developing countries, to achieve an initial reconstruction for economic and social development;
- 14. Emphasizes also the need for the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank, in their assessment of debt sustainability, to take into account fundamental changes caused, inter alia, by natural disasters, conflicts, changes in the global growth prospects or in the terms of trade, especially for commodity exporting developing countries;
- 15. Notes the new Debt Sustainability Framework of the World Bank, which aims at identifying countries that will be eligible for IDA grants, and calls for transparency in the computation of the Country Policy and Institutional Assessments that form part of the Framework, and further calls for an evaluation of its overall implications for low-income countries;
- 16. Stresses the need to find a comprehensive solution for the debt problems of heavily indebted low- and middle-income developing countries that are not eligible for debt relief under the HIPC Initiative and in this regard continues to encourage exploring innovative mechanisms to comprehensively address their debt problems;
- 17. Stresses also the need to consider an international debt-work-out mechanism, in the appropriate forums, the adoption of which should not preclude emergency financing in times of crisis, to promote fair burdensharing and minimize moral hazard, which will engage debtors and creditors to come together to restructure unsustainable debts in a timely and efficient manner;

- 18. Calls upon the international community to support capacity building in developing countries for the management of financial assets and liabilities, in order to enhance debt financing policies as an integral part of national development strategies;
- 19. Calls upon the international community, including the United Nations system, and invites the Bretton Woods institutions, as well as the private sector, to take appropriate measures and actions for the implementation of the commitments, agreements and decisions of the major United Nations conferences and summits, in particular those relating to the question of the external debt problem of developing countries;
- 20. Welcomes the initiative of the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development, the International Monetary Fund and the World Bank, in cooperation with the regional commissions, development banks and funds, and other multilateral institutions, to create a consultative group on external debt management aimed at facilitating cooperation and coordination among providers of technical assistance in debt management;
- 21. Requests the Secretary-General to submit to the General Assembly at its sixtieth session a report on the implementation of the present resolution and to include in that report a comprehensive and substantive analysis of the external debt and debt-servicing problems of developing countries;

22. Decides to include in the provisional agenda of its sixtieth session, under the item entitled "Macroeconomic policy questions", the sub-item entitled "External debt crisis and development".
