Forging links between the Addis Ababa Action Agenda and HABITAT III – strengthening international cooperation on municipal finance for sustainable development in LDCs

Organized by UNCDF, UN-DESA and UN-HABITAT

The Addis Ababa Action Agenda (AAAA), adopted at the Third International Conference on Financing for Development in July 2015, recognizes that “expenditures and investments in sustainable development are being devolved to the sub-national level, which often lack adequate technical and technological capacity, financing and support” (para 34) and calls for greater “international cooperation to strengthen capacities of municipalities and other local authorities” (Ibid). The commitment in the AAAA to strengthen subnational finance is particularly relevant in the context of Goal 11 of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development which sets out to “make cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable”.

The side event is part of a broader effort to link the AAAA with the HABITAT III process and its goal to reinvigorate the global commitment to sustainable urbanization. The objective is to place more emphasis on the financing needs of local authorities in the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, especially in the context of least developed countries (LDCs). Despite the recognition of the need to empower local authorities to finance their local development objectives, the ability of municipal governments to provide essential services, let alone to make long-term investments, is often constrained. As a result, mobilizing both public and private resources to finance investments and improve services at the municipal level is one of the most challenging aspects of local development, especially if the goal is to tap resources on market-like conditions in a sustainable manner. The critical challenges for greater capital investment are bringing borrowers and lenders together in a sustainable market relationship, and managing the risks inherent in this type of financing.

Speakers will present short introductory statements which will be followed by an interactive discussion on how municipal finance in LDCs can be strengthened. Interpretation services (French – English, Spanish – English) will be provided.
