

Regional and Global Guidelines

The tenth anniversary may be the occasion to call for global and regional efforts to complement and support national and local-level actions. Effective and practical measures are to be identified and to be carried out at the global and regional levels to mark the observance. United Nations agencies and bodies, including the regional commissions, as well as research and academic institutions are expected to be actively involved in the preparatory process.

United Nations organizations and bodies are expected to give wide support to the tenth anniversary, especially where the topic is relevant to their current programmes. The agencies are encouraged to designate focal points for the tenth anniversary to regularly consult with the Programme on the Family, as the lead agency for the tenth anniversary.
