BACKGROUND NOTE FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF A SYSTEM WIDE ACTION PLAN TO ENSURE A COHERENT APPROACH TO ACHIEVING THE ENDS OF THE UNITED NATIONS DECLARATION ON THE RIGHTS OF INDIGENOUS PEOPLES

Background Note 7

Online questionnaire on the follow-up to the 2014 World Conference on Indigenous Peoples: Inputs from Indigenous Peoples on implementation of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples

Prepared by the Secretariat of the United Nations Permanent Forum on Indigenous Peoples (DSPD/UN-DESA) July 2015

Introduction

In the outcome document of the 2014 World Conference on Indigenous Peoples, the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General, to begin the development, within existing resources, of a system-wide action plan to ensure a coherent approach to achieving the ends of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. The General Assembly also requested that this action plan be developed in consultation with indigenous peoples and Member States.

In March-April 2015, as a part of these consultations, UN-DESA prepared a questionnaire that was disseminated electronically to all Permanent Missions to the United Nations and a separate online questionnaire for indigenous peoples and their organizations. The questionnaire asked twelve questions related to the follow-up to the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples including specific questions on what the challenges are to achieving the ends of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples and what role the United Nations could play in overcoming these challenges. A total of 435 responses were received while 227 responded specifically to the questions below¹.

I. Challenges to achieving the ends of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples

The questionnaire asked indigenous peoples to identify some of the challenges to achieving the aims of the Declaration. The following elements were highlighted by the respondents followed by the number of respondents who highlighted the item:

- 1. A lack of political will by governments at different levels to implement the provisions of the Declaration. In relation to this, many respondents said that some states do not recognize indigenous peoples as indigenous, while others stated that private sector interests are prioritized over the rights of indigenous peoples. (139 times)
- 2. A lack of information and a lack of awareness about the rights of indigenous peoples, both by governments as well as indigenous peoples. (33 times)
- 3. A lack of institutional mechanisms and legal frameworks (at both the national and international level) to monitor and promote the implementation of the Declaration. (28 times)
- 4. A lack of resources and/or capacity of indigenous peoples and their organizations to effectively promote the implementation of the Declaration and to affect policy. (13 times)
- 5. A lack of financial resources devoted by governments to promoting the rights of indigenous peoples (11 times).
- 6. Climate change and environmental degradation. (2 times)
- 7. A lack of support for indigenous peoples from the United Nations. (1 time)

II. Recommendation to the United Nations

The questionnaire also asked indigenous peoples to identify specific actions that the United Nations could take to promote the provisions of the Declaration. The following elements were highlighted by the respondents followed by the number of respondents who highlighted the item:

- 1. Establish a mechanism that monitors state implementation of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. 28 respondents specifically called for a monitoring body while 30 others called on the United Nations to "force", "get" or "make" states respect the rights of indigenous peoples and to implement the Declaration. (58 times)
- 2. Reform participation of indigenous peoples at the United Nations, taking into account indigenous peoples that are not recognized by the states in which they live and also with a view to expanding adequate participation of genuine representatives of indigenous peoples. (34 times)
- 3. Promote increased awareness and education on the rights and well-being of indigenous peoples. (20 times)
- 4. Provide indigenous peoples and their organizations with support and training/capacity building. (14 times)
- The United Nations, including the indigenous specific mechanisms and the UNCTs need to be in more direct contact with indigenous peoples, they should visit their territories and designate focal points to work with indigenous peoples. (9 times)
- Ensure that human rights treaty bodies take the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples into account while carrying out their mandates. (8 times)
- 7. Provide the forum or platform for constructive dialogue between indigenous peoples and governments at the national as well as the international level and UN staff should receive training in this regard. (7 times)
- 8. Ensure that UN agencies working on the ground on the rights of indigenous peoples have adequate support and resources. (4 times)
- 9. The Committee on Decolonization and the Trusteeship Council should take up the decolonization of indigenous peoples' territories. (3 times)
- 10. Cooperate with national and regional human rights institutions to promote the Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples. (2 times)
- 11. Recognize indigenous peoples' rights to their lands and sacred sites. (2 times)
- 12. The Economic and Social Council should have a specific agenda item on indigenous peoples to ensure effective dialogue and concrete actions. (1 time)
- 13. Appoint a Special Advisor to the Secretary-General on indigenous peoples. (1 time)
- 14. Increased transparency by the United Nations. (1 time)
- Include indigenous peoples' concerns in the Sustainable Development Goals. (1 time)

III. Conclusions

According to the responses provided by indigenous peoples the one primary obstacle to achieving the ends of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples is a lack of political will by governments to respect indigenous peoples' rights and to implement the Declaration. Other challenges include a lack of awareness of indigenous peoples' rights, a lack of resources devoted to indigenous peoples' issues and a lack of institutional and legal frameworks to protect their rights. These were mentioned in an overwhelming majority of responses and they overlap significantly. One other challenge that indigenous peoples mentioned is that their organizations and representatives need added resources and capacity to promote the rights of indigenous peoples. One respondent cited a lack of support from the United Nations as an obstacle to achieving the ends of the Declaration.

When asked specifically to highlight what the United Nations can do to achieve the ends of the Declaration, most of the responses were consistent with the problem analysis. In their responses many indigenous respondents stated their expectation that the United Nations to assist in monitoring the implementation of the Declaration and ensure or promote state compliance with the Declaration. Other recommendations focused on the interaction between the United Nations and indigenous peoples, including increased and reformed participation of indigenous peoples at the United Nations, more direct contact with indigenous peoples and the provision of support and capacity building for indigenous peoples' organizations.

Annex I:

Inputs received from indigenous peoples

The questionnaire for indigenous peoples was published online on 3 March 2015. Information about the questionnaire was disseminated via an extensive e-mail list of indigenous representatives that has been maintained by the Secretariat of the Permanent Forum since its establishment in 2003. Information was also disseminated via the networks of the members of the Inter-Agency Support Group on Indigenous Issues. Initially the questionnaire provided inputs for the preparation of a Report of the Secretary General on the implementation of the outcome document of the World Conference on Indigenous Peoples. Due to the necessary deadline for the submission of the Report, a deadline for submitting responses to the questionnaire was also necessary. Upon completion of the Report and in response to requests from indigenous peoples and Member States, the online questionnaire was re-opened in May 2015. UN-DESA continues to monitor responses to the questionnaire. Inputs made in May and June 2015 are included in this current analysis.

A total of 435 responses have been received from indigenous peoples from all seven sociocultural regions as of 26 June 2015.
