Here are ten of the ways the UN works for peace every day. To honour the International Day of Peace on 21 September, take a minute to tell us what you can do for peace. The UN:

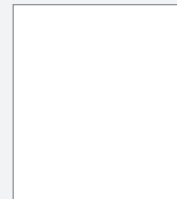

1. Brings together 192 countries to work to prevent and resolve conflict and wars.
2. Promotes human rights for all.
3. Provides food, water, shelter and medicine to victims of war or disasters.
4. Develops international agreements to counter terrorism, control drugs and crime, protect the environment and curb illicit weapons.
5. Deploys peace operations to help countries recover from war.
6. Supports democracy through free and fair elections, and good governance.
7. Establishes international tribunals and courts to ensure justice for war crimes and violations of humanitarian law.
8. Inspires a culture of peace through dialogue, education and information.
9. Leads campaigns against poverty, hunger and disease.
10. Assists economic and social development.
