Empowered lives.
Resilient nations.

YOU ARE INVITED

REVOLUTIONIZING DATA ON WOMEN'S LEADERSHIP IN PUBLIC LIFE

The ongoing discussions of the Post-2015 Sustainable Development Goals and the 20th Anniversary of the Beijing Platform for Action recognize that there is a significant data gap in women's leadership role in public life. Data is emerging on overall gender issues, yet a gender data revolution is urgently needed to bridge the knowledge gap on women's participation and leadership in public governance.

The Permanent Mission of Norway to the United Nations, the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development, and the United Nations Development Programme are pleased to invite you to an event on Revolutionizing Data on Women's Leadership in the Public Sector. Building on the recommendations of UNDP's Global Report on Gender Equality in Public Administration (GEPA), the event will serve as a call to action to expand and open up data on the status of women in public life.

WHEN: Monday 31 August 2015
1:30-5:30 pm

WHERE: Conference Room 6
UN Headquarters

To RSVP (required for non-UN pass holders), please contact: gepa@undp.org

Please see the following page for the agenda. The event will include open discussion and presentations from representatives of the Permanent Mission of Norway to the UN, OECD, UNDP and:
