Commission on the Status of Women
Fifty-second session, 25 February – 7 March 2008

Agreed Conclusions

Financing for gender equality and the empowerment of women

1. The Commission on the Status of Women reaffirms the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action, which emphasized the need for political commitment to make available human and financial resources for the empowerment of women and that funding had to be identified and mobilized from all sources and across all sectors to achieve the goals of gender equality and the empowerment of women, (Based on Platform for Action, para. 345) and the outcome of the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly, which called upon Governments to incorporate a gender perspective into the design, development, adoption, and execution of all budgetary processes, as appropriate, in order to promote equitable and effective resource allocation and establish adequate budgetary allocations to support gender equality and development programmes that enhance women's empowerment. (Resolution S-23/3, annex, para 73 (b))
2. The Commission acknowledges that national machineries are necessary for the implementation of the Beijing Platform for Action; and that for national machineries to be effective, clear mandates, location at the highest possible level, accountability mechanisms, partnership with civil society, a transparent political process, adequate financial and human resources and continued strong political commitment are crucial. (CSW Agreed conclusions 1999/II, para. 4)
3. The Commission recalls that the Platform for Action recognized the roles of United Nations funds, programmes and specialized agencies in the promotion of the empowerment of women, and therefore in the implementation of the Platform for Action within their respective mandates, and noted that the resources provided by the international community needed to be sufficient and should be maintained at an adequate level. (Based on Platform for Action, para. 360)
4. The Commission recognizes the importance of non-governmental organizations, as well as other civil society actors, in advancing the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action. (Based on ECOSOC 2006/9)
5. The Commission recalls the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and the Optional Protocol and draws attention to the work of the Committee towards the practical realization of the principle of equality between women and men. (Based on CEDAW article 2 (a))
6. The Commission recalls the outcome of the International Conference on Financing for Development in 2002, which emphasized the importance of a holistic approach to the interconnected national, international and systemic challenges of financing for development –sustainable, gender-sensitive, people-centred development. (Based on A/CONF.198/11, chapter 1, resolution 1, annex, paragraph 8)

7. The Commission also recalls the 2005 World Summit, which reaffirmed that the full and effective implementation of the goals and objectives of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action and the outcome of the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly is an essential contribution to achieving the internationally agreed development goals, including those contained in the Millennium Declaration. (A/RES/60/1, para. 58)

8. The Commission reaffirms the declaration adopted on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the Fourth World Conference on Women, which stressed that challenges and obstacles remained in the implementation of the Beijing Declaration and Platform for Action and the outcome documents of the twenty-third special session of the General Assembly, and pledged to undertake further action to ensure their full and accelerated implementation. (Based on para. 2 of the CSW Declaration, see ECOSOC decision 2005/232 contained in document E/2005/99)

9. The Commission is concerned that, despite a growing body of evidence demonstrating that investing in women and girls has a multiplier effect on productivity, efficiency and sustained economic growth, and despite the calls for gender mainstreaming in economic and public finance processes, adequate resources have not been systematically allocated, and that monitoring and reporting on resource allocations remain insufficient in all areas. (Based on E/CN.6/2008/2, paras. 14, 83 and 87)

10. The Commission is also concerned that insufficient budgetary resources continue to undermine the effectiveness and sustainability of both national mechanisms for the advancement of women and women's organizations in advocating for, supporting and monitoring the implementation of the Beijing Platform for Action. (E.CN.6/2008/2, para. 86)

11. The Commission urges Governments, the United Nations system, and invites the Bretton Woods institutions, international and regional organizations, non-governmental organizations, as well as other civil society actors, including the private sector, as appropriate, to take the following actions:

a. Strengthen the mandates of national machineries for the advancement of women, and ensure that they are adequately resourced to carry out their critical mandates in advocating for, supporting and monitoring the incorporation of gender perspectives in all policy areas and the implementation of gender equality plans and programmes; (E.CN.6/2008/5, para. 90 (f))

b. Strengthen the dialogue between ministries of finance and planning and national mechanisms for the advancement of women, gender focal points in line ministries and women's organizations to ensure the incorporation of gender perspectives into all economic policies, plans and budgets; (E.CN.6/2008/2, para. 88(f))

c. Ensure that gender equality is prioritized as a central goal in the design, implementation, monitoring and evaluation of all national economic policies, strategies and plans, across all policy areas, including in national development strategies and poverty reduction strategies, and encourage the active participation of national mechanisms for the advancement of women and women's organizations in the design and development of such policies, strategies and plans; (E.CN.6/2008/5, para. 90 (c))
