Strengthening the International Convention against Doping in Sport

Provide a summary of the initiative, including a brief overview, proposed/actual outcomes and an assessment of any lessons learned and the way forward.

Several initiatives related to the International Convention against Doping in Sport and the Fund for the Elimination of Doping in Sport are to be highlighted for 2018-2019. The majority of the points summarized here below are based on/respond to the major recommendations of the evaluations undertaken on the Convention (2017) and the Fund (2018).

1. Reinforced strategic governance and leadership of the Bureau of the Conference of Parties (COP). In addition, the institutional dimension of the Anti-Doping Convention was leveraged, alongside its global requirements linked to challenges affecting sport ethics, integrity and values. The Convention’s strengthened governance is now inscribed in the revised Rules of Procedures. The Bureau has been empowered to drive the COP agenda and to oversee progress made on identified priorities. In addition, gender balance is encouraged in the composition of UNESCO’s anti-doping governing bodies and expert groups.
2. Responding to the needs of States Parties and stakeholders, tangible mechanisms and tools were made available for structural and operational change towards sustainable impact, notably the following under the guidance of the Bureau of the Conference of Parties :
 - Operational Guidelines and Framework of Consequences for non-compliance;
 - Model legislative framework aimed at assisting States Parties in the creation/review of anti-doping policy;
 - Compliance certification recognizing/encouraging the efforts of States Parties.
3. National Compliance Platforms established in 90 States Parties for harmonized, transparent and coordinated enhanced implementation of the Convention;
4. Tackled essential topics – both current and prospective – that are part of main challenges to sport values and integrity addressed through an innovative Forum organized in the framework of the seventh session of the Conference of Parties to the Anti-Doping Convention. The Forum focused on various key crosscutting contemporary issues such as gene doping and artificial intelligence, women and youth empowerment through sport, values-based education through sport, facilitating communication between anti-doping stakeholders at different levels (international, regional, national).
5. Partnership-development is key for international cooperation. UNESCO established two new partnerships focusing on preventive education and gender equality with the French Tennis Federation and the International Testing Agency.
6. Strategic transformation of the Fund to produce change and long-term impact and efficiently promote values, notably by reforming the decision-making and application processes, as well as its governance and sustainability mechanisms.
