

Biography

Panelist

Eduardo Clark

Director Data for Development at the Office of the President of Mexico

Eduardo Clark is Director Data for Development at the Office of the President of Mexico where he oversees projects related to the use of data analysis for the evaluation, design and implementation of some of the Office's priority policies. He currently coordinates projects to use information technologies to better provide government services for Prospera, Mexico's largest social development program.