

SDG Goal 10: Reduce inequality within and among countries

Indicator: 10.7.2:

Number of countries that have implemented well managed migration policies

This indicator aims to describe the state of global migration policy and to track the evolution of such policies over time. The information collected could be disaggregated by region and country, and could identify both progress made and gaps, thus contributing to the evidence base for actionable recommendations for the implementation of SDG target 10.7 “Facilitate orderly, safe, and responsible migration and mobility of people, including through implementation of planned and well-managed migration policies”.

The main goal is to formulate a clear and simple methodology based on existing data sources which could produce meaningful, actionable and timely information of key trends and gaps in relation to “well-managed migration policies” of countries.

The six domains of the Framework for the indicator on “well-managed migration policies” referenced above are based on IOM’s Migration Governance Framework, which was welcomed by 157 countries (IOM Council Resolution C/106/RES/1310). The six proposed domains for the indicator are:

- 1. Migrant rights
- 2. Institutional capacities
- 3. Migration governance
- 4. Cooperation and partnerships
- 5. Migration and development
- 6. Forced displacement

Data source, method of computation and international consensus:

The main source of data will be the UN Inquiry among Governments on Population and Development (see), which has been surveying global population policies since 1963, including policies on international migration. The Inquiry will be updated to analyse measures across six migration-related policy domains mentioned above. The purpose of this indicator will not be to rank countries. Rather, the information to be extracted from the Inquiry will serve to register progress and identify gaps across policy domains, such as countries in need of support for capacity building. This indicator for SDG target 10.7 will also be useful for the future thematic reviews at the High-level Political Forum on Sustainable Development (HLPF), as migration is an issue that cuts across many SDGs and targets.
