INCLUSIVE CITIES

Where are the accessible places?

SOZIALHELDEN

info@sozialhelden.de

info@sozialhelden.de

Participating in all aspects of life is a human right

My disability should not limit me from experiencing living in the city.

info@sozialhelden.de

Can I get in?

Many places have steps at the entrance, which are a barrier for wheelchair users like myself.

info@sozialhelden.de

Problem

Right now this information is often not available, and when it is,

it is not easy to find.

Solution

Making this information readily available with crowdsourcing!

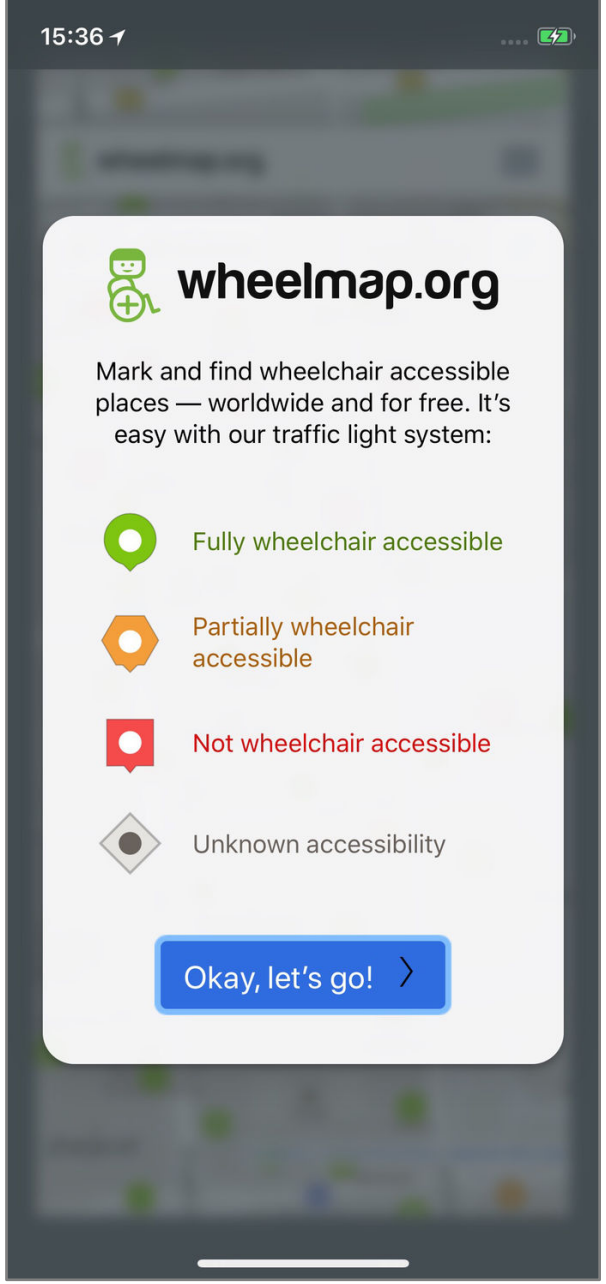
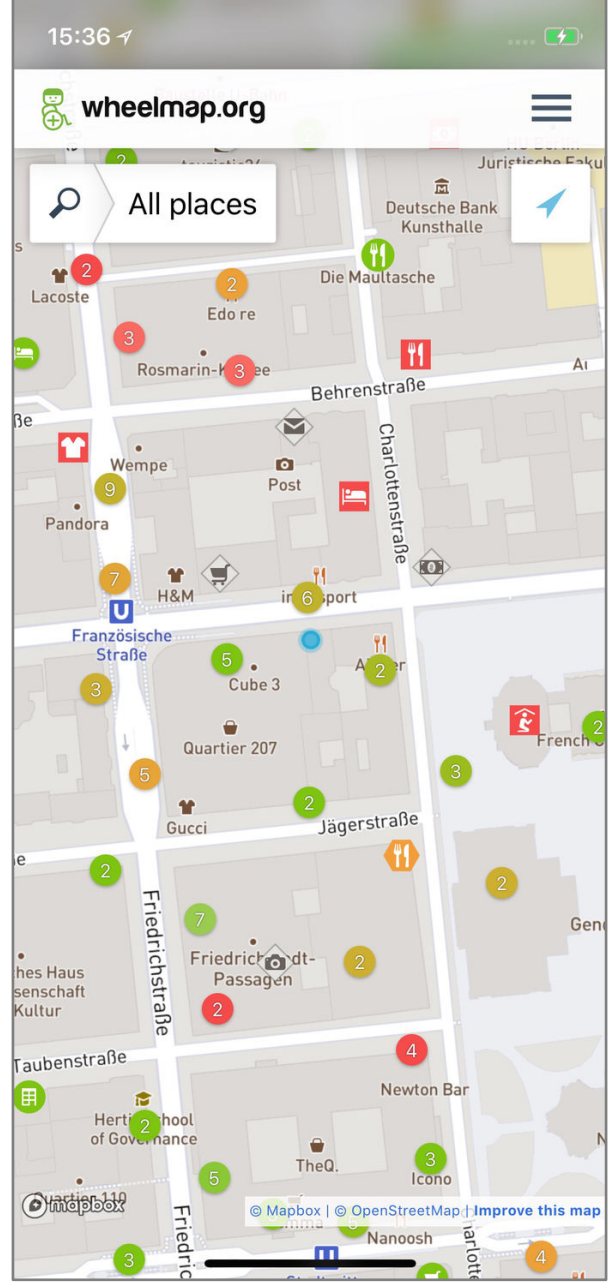
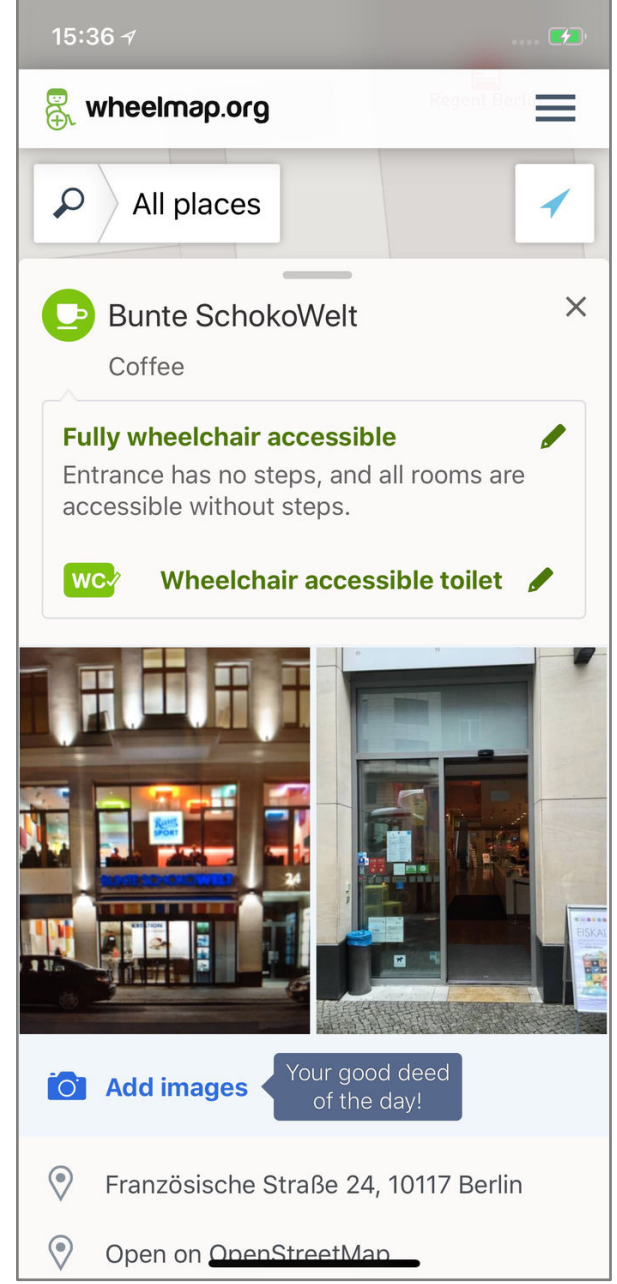
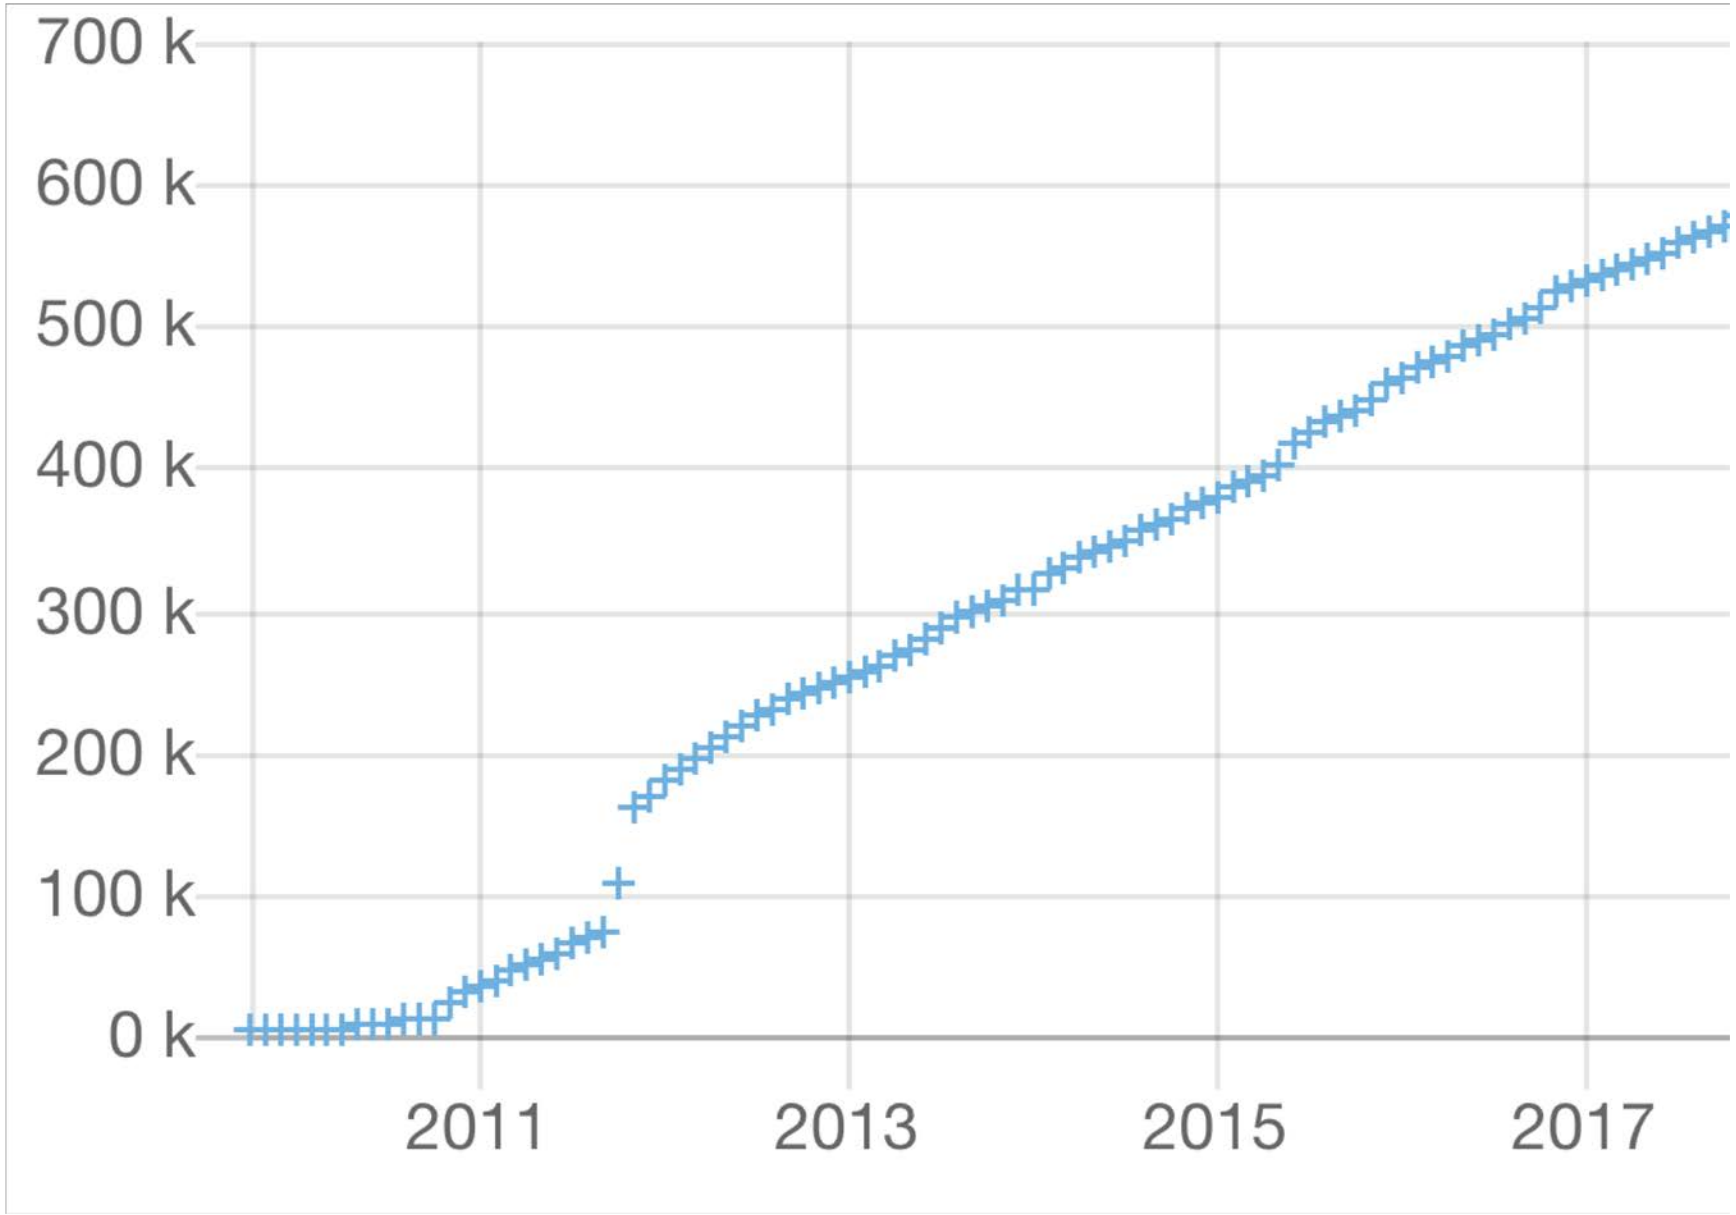
info@sozialhelden.de







info@sozialhelden.de



933.108 places

marked until today as fully, partially or not wheelchair-accessible

by the users of

Wheelmap.org

info@sozialhelden.de

Others have also collected information about the accessibility of places.
Great!

FOURSQUARE

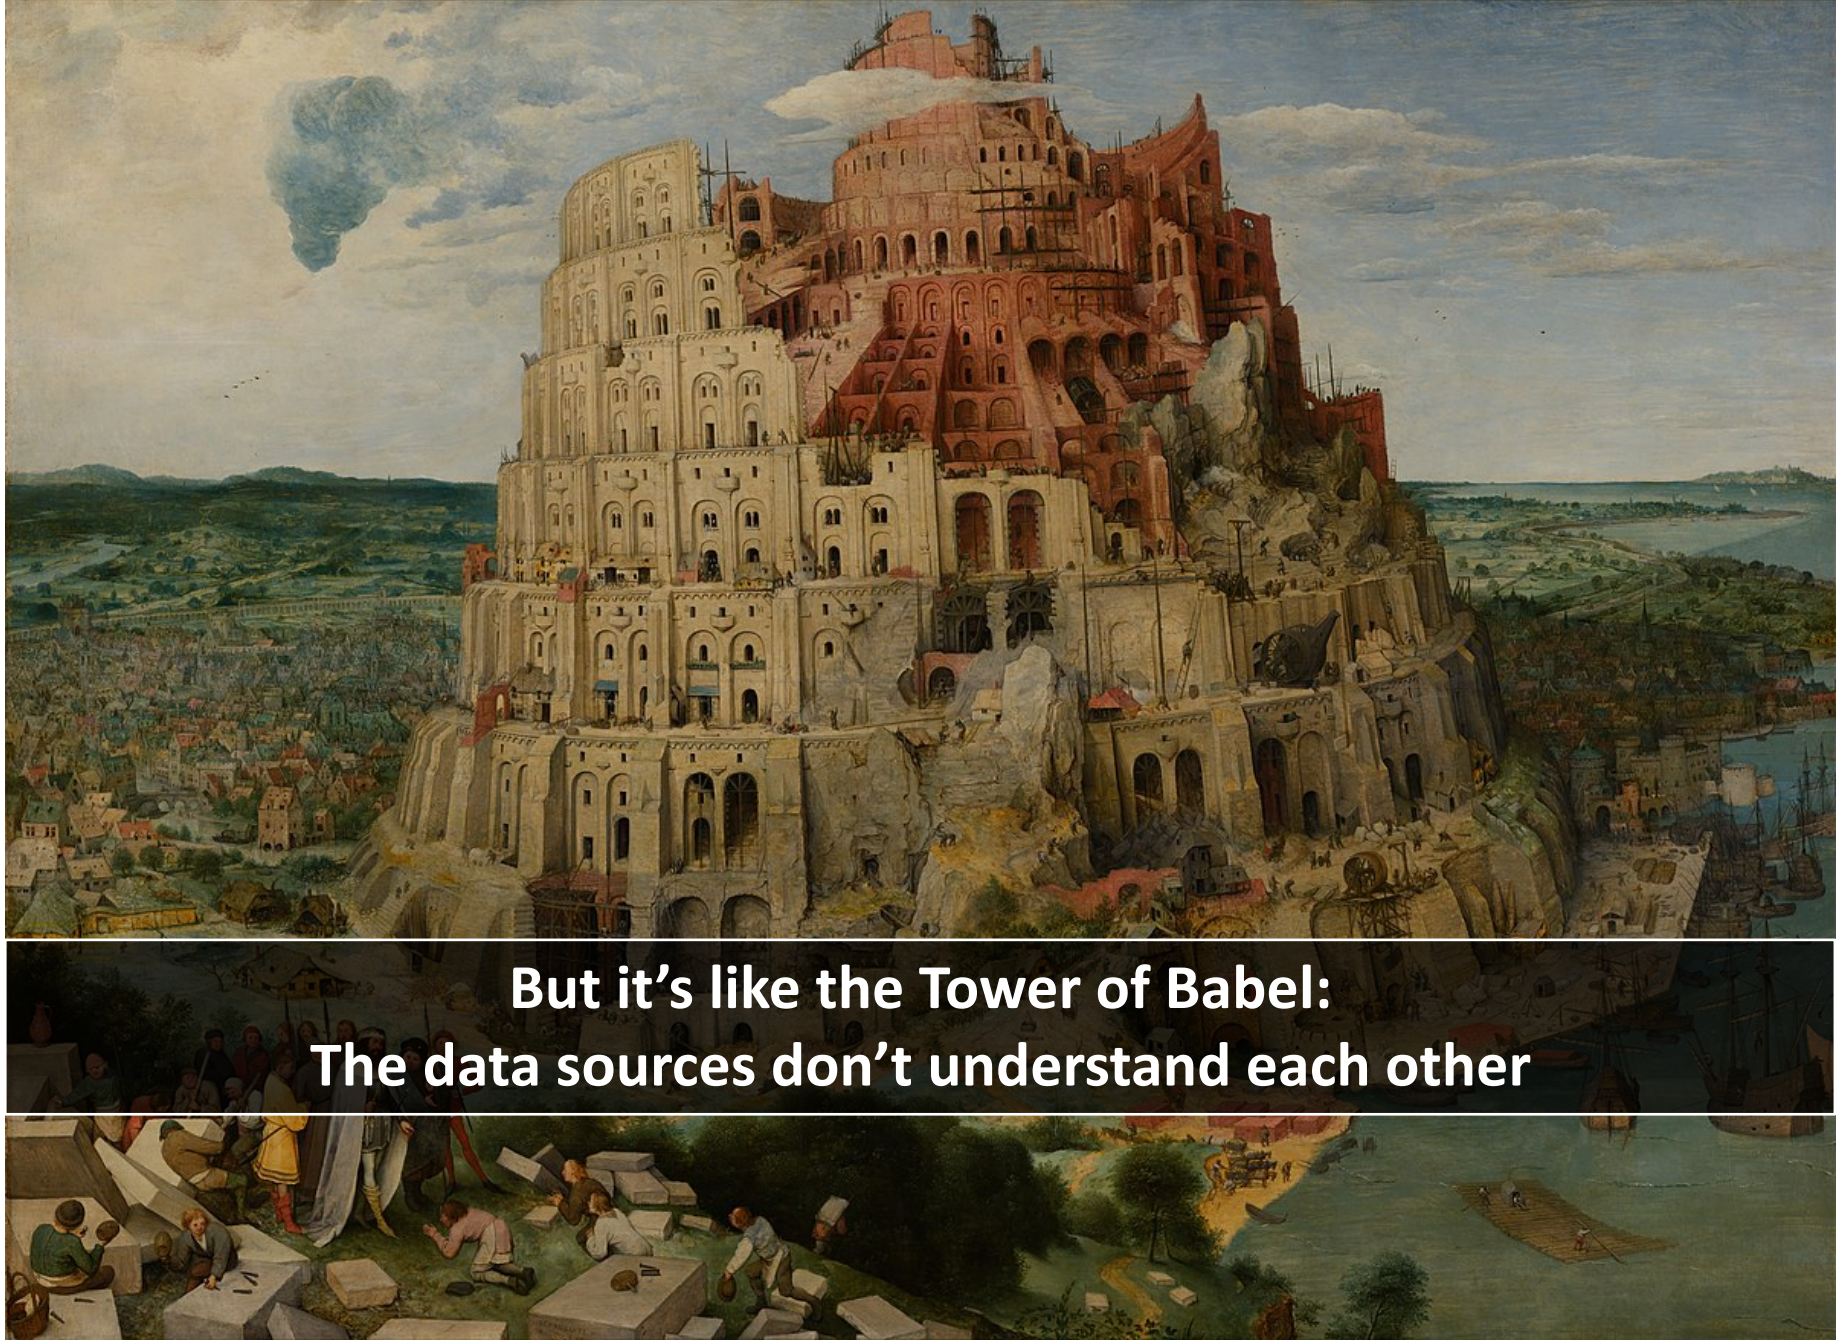
I WHEEL SHARE

AXSMAP

data.gov.uk

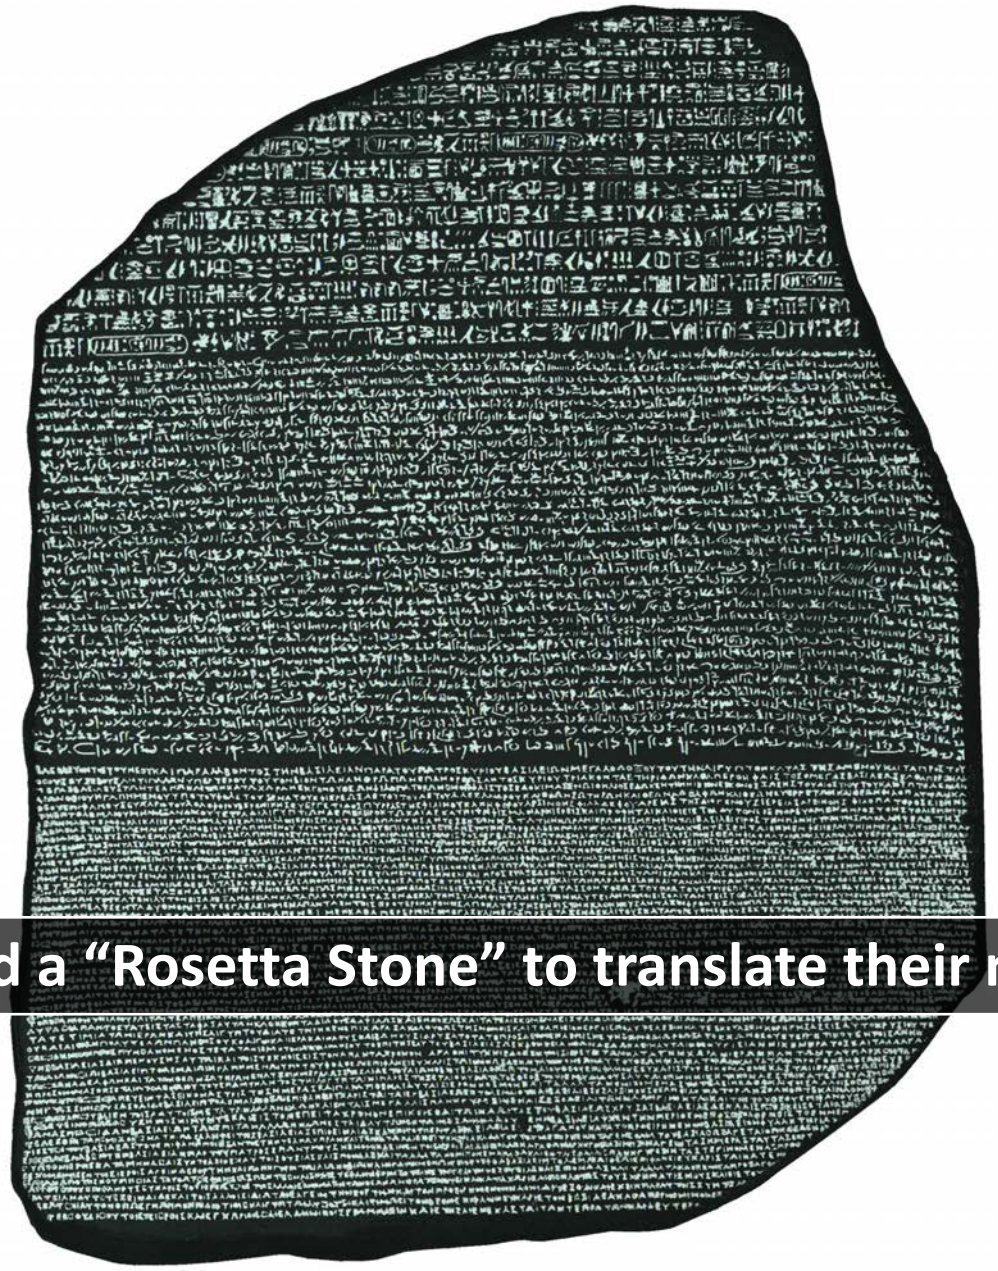
And many more…

info@sozialhelden.de



But it’s like the Tower of Babel:
The data sources don’t understand each other

info@sozialhelden.de



We need a “Rosetta Stone” to translate their meaning

info@sozialhelden.de

That’s why we have built Accessibility.Cloud

Many data sources in many formats → One place to get data in one harmonized format.

info@sozialhelden.de

500.000 MORE PLACES..

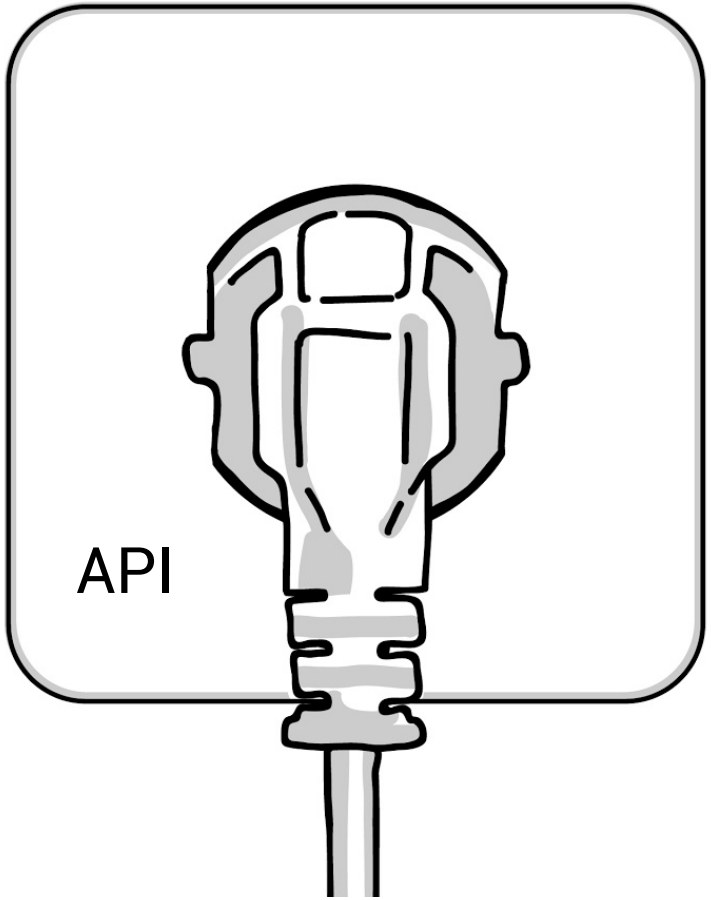
..on Wheelmap.org with accessibility information

from 90 partner sources

info@sozialhelden.de

1.4 million places

DISABILITY MAINSTREAMING:
The data is ready to be used by others as well



Contact us!

info@sozialhelden.de

Daimler

Data used to help car drivers navigate to accessible places (pilot phase).

ImmobilienScout24

Data used to find a place to live with accessible places nearby.

United Nations

Data used for “Flagship Report on Disability”.

info@sozialhelden.de

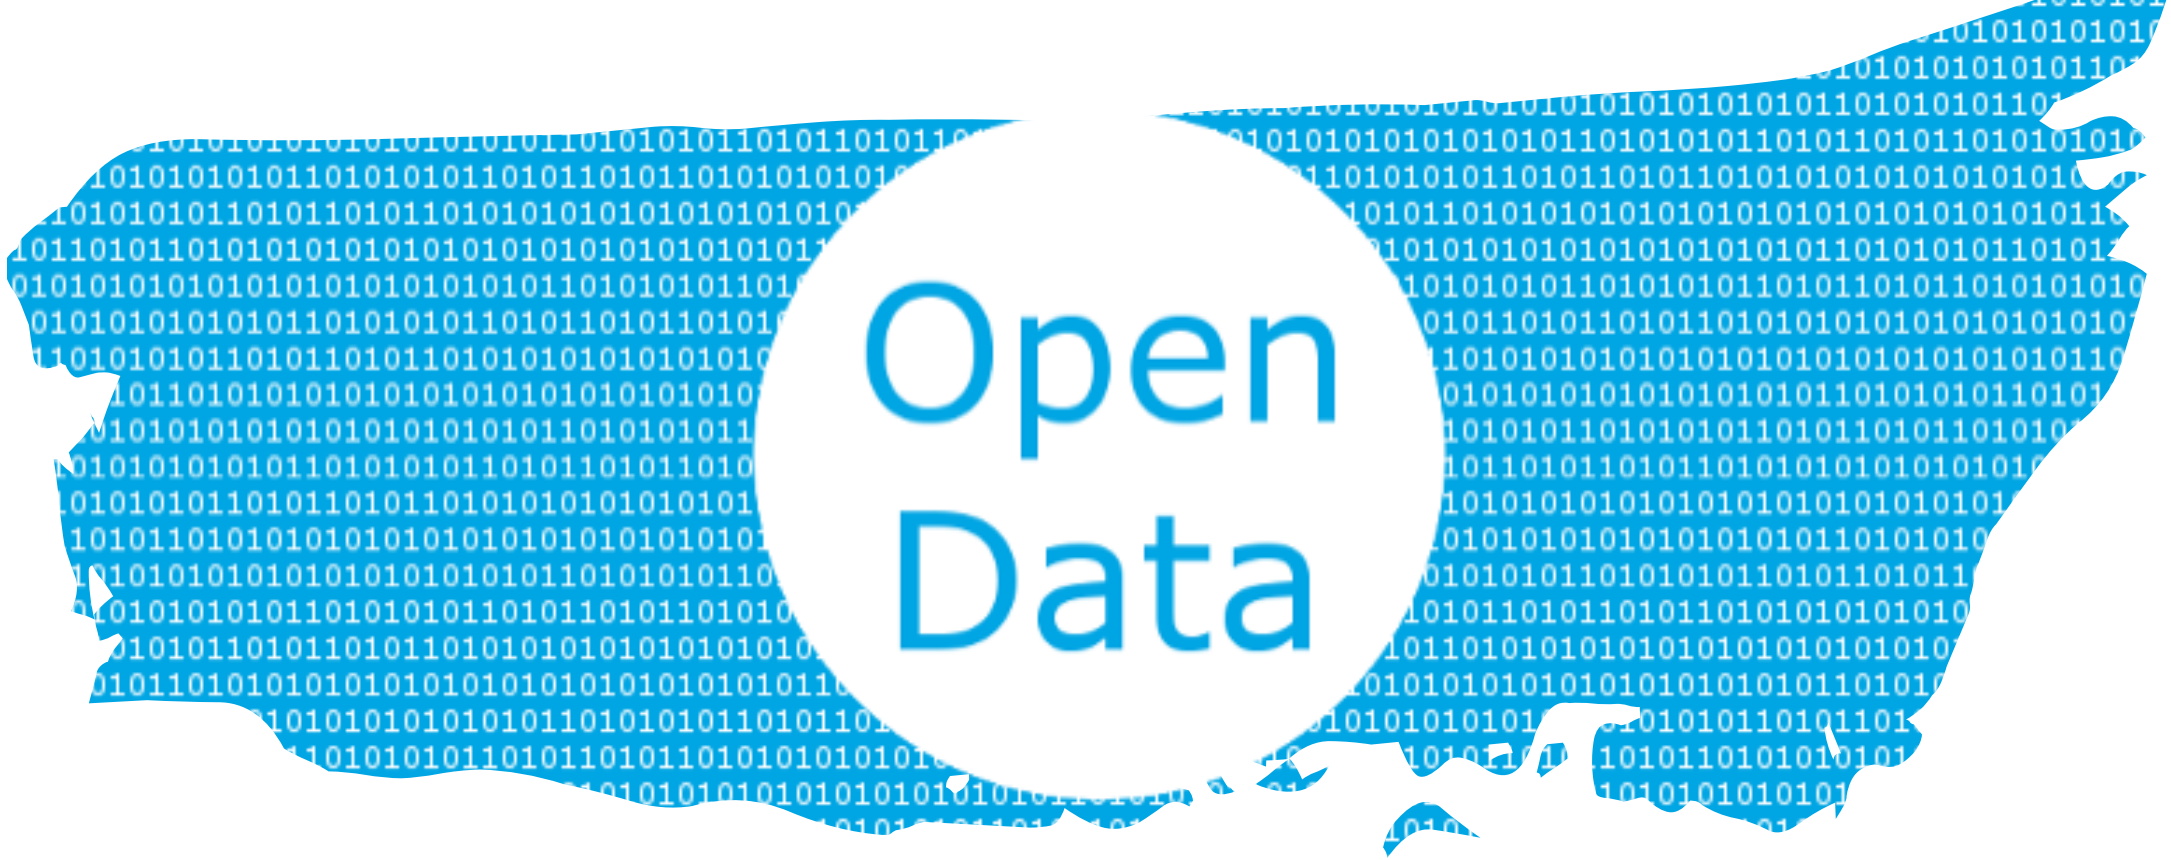
We believe:
Data → Insights → Social Change

info@sozialhelden.de

1.4 million places is good.

info@sozialhelden.de

But how do we get to 100 million places?



Publish what you have

More cities should open up their data so we all can use it.

info@sozialhelden.de

Collect more data

Encourage your citizens to report the accessibility of places.

We can give you the tools you need.

info@sozialhelden.de

Use our data

Open & share your data

Collect more

info@sozialhelden.de

info@sozialhelden.de