SECTION 1:

Review of progress and assessment of implementation of the Durban Declaration and Programme of Action by all stakeholders at the national, regional and international levels, including the assessment of contemporary manifestations of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance

A. Sources, causes, forms, and contemporary manifestations of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance

(General provisions on DDPA, human rights, human dignity, cultural diversity, multiculturalism, sources, causes, forms, manifestations, political will, obstacles)

1. Reaffirms the DDPA in its entirety and the need to eradicate all manifestations of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance in all parts of the world, especially in light of developments and challenges that have occurred since the adoption of the DDPA, and to combat those manifestations wherever they occur; (based on para 10 section 1)
2. Notes that the DDPA is an important milestone in the collective struggle of mankind against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance. As a result of the collective resolve expressed by the UN family in 2001 in Durban, a number of countries have taken substantial steps to incorporate and implement the DDPA in their national policy framework. Others have worked to streamline their policies in accordance with the DDPA. All these steps and efforts indicate progress in many cases; (merger paras 270, 267 section 1 and para 2 section 5)
3. Affirms that failure to fully implement the DDPA would result in the intensification of worrying racist and xenophobic trends, including the political instrumentalization and intellectual legitimization of racism as well as racist violence; (merger paras 38 and 268 section 1)
4. Notes the continued existence of inequality and non compliance with specific obligations in the promotion and protection of equality at the national, regional and international levels. Further reaffirms the obligation of States to take action in this respect; (merger paras 9, 33 section 1)
5. Notes that other obstacles hampering progress in the collective struggle against racism and racial discrimination include weak legislation and policies, lack of effective strategies, lack of implementation of international legal framework and commitments, impunity on different grounds – including freedom of expression, counter-terrorism, and national security – as well as an increase in extreme right wing xenophobic political platforms. Hence the need to deal with this menace in all its forms and manifestations with all available tools at our disposal; (merger paras 189, 336 section 1);

6. Underlines that racial discrimination condoned by governmental policies violates human rights and may endanger friendly relations between peoples, cooperation among nations, and international peace and security; (para 304 section 1)
7. Confirms that respect for cultural diversity is an important tool to combat racial discrimination, while reiterating that cultural particularities cannot be invoked to derogate from international human rights law; (merger paras 69 and 259 section 1)
8. Alarmed at the intellectual and political resistance to multiculturalism, which is one of the root-causes of the resurgence of racist and xenophobic violence, reiterates that rejection of diversity has led to the negation of the very humanity of the immigrant, foreigner and other racial and religious minorities; (para 134 section 1)

(Racist theories, ideologies, doctrines, incitement to racial hatred, nationalist ideologies, national preference theories)

9. Notes that racist theories and ideologies of national superiority can find their roots inter alia in the failure to implement the DDPA, lack of proper education, abuse of information technology, and absence of affirmative action in favour of vulnerable groups; (merger paras 140, 150, 290, 68, 289, 148, 200, 70 section 1)
10. Notes that one of the principal reasons fomenting the tide of racism is the growing increase in the right wing extremist political discourse, including in some of the most liberal and pluralistic societies. This trend has led to the deepening of the racist tendencies in those societies through propaganda against immigrants and promotion of cultural and religious superiority doctrines. Immunity granted to such acts has led to denial of basic human rights to the affected communities including their right to freely practice and preserve their religious and cultural identities; (para 80 section 5)
11. Notes with deep concern the widening use by some groups and organizations of the opportunities provided by print, audio-visual and electronic media as well as scientific and technological progress, such as the Internet, to promote racist and xenophobic propaganda aimed at inciting societies throughout the world to racial hatred; (para 74 section 1)
12. Resolutely condemns any ideologies and practices based on racial discrimination or superiority which entail abuse of human rights and fundamental freedoms, and affirms that all States have the obligation to take all available measures to combat ideologies, activities and practices based on racial discrimination or superiority; (para 219 section 1)

(Racist crimes, hate crimes, urban violence)

13. Reaffirms the responsibility of Governments for safeguarding and protecting the rights of individuals within their jurisdiction against crimes perpetrated by racist or xenophobic individuals or groups; (para 207 section 1)

(Poverty and racism)

14. Considers that poverty and social exclusion affecting certain sectors of society are cross-cutting themes relating to the various forms of discrimination; (para 4 chap 1)

(Armed conflict, ethnic, tribal violence, war crimes, crimes against humanity, genocide)

15. Deplores the numerous occurrences of internal conflicts and inter-ethnic and intra-religious or communal violence, including those that appear to be based on tribal lines, which have led to casualties and killings, torture, massive displacement, rape and destruction of property and infrastructures, war crimes, crimes against humanity and genocide; (para 62 section 1)
16. Emphasizes that the multiple factors of a situation that might lead to genocide, as defined in the Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide, include the resurgence of systematic discrimination, the prevalence of expressions of hate speech targeting persons belonging to national, ethnic, racial or religious groups, especially if they are uttered in the context of an actual or potential outbreak of violence, and serious and systematic violation of human rights; (para 64 section 1)
17. Reiterates that freedom from discrimination on the ground of race is a fundamental principle of international humanitarian law and urges all parties to armed conflicts to abide scrupulously by the rules laid down in this body of law prohibiting adverse distinction; (para 76 section 1)
18. Deplores also the use of Government-aligned or -organized irregular militia to oppress, murder and displace ethnic populations; (para 63 section 1)

(Slave trade, traditional forms of slavery, colonialism, historic injustices, remembering past tragedies, apologies)

19. Pays tribute to countries and personalities who lent their valuable support to Africa during its struggle against institutionalized racism, colonialism and apartheid; (para 329 section 1)
20. Welcomes the actions taken to commemorate the memory of victims of slavery and the slave trade, in particular the transatlantic slave trade, and the abolition of those historic tragedies, and stresses the need to similarly address the trans-Saharan slave trade and the slave trade in the Indian Ocean. Welcomes the adoption of GA Resolutions 61/19 and 62/122 related to the abolition of the transatlantic slave trade and remembrance of its victims and, in particular, the designation of 25 March as the International Day of Remembrance of the Victims of Slavery and the Transatlantic Slave Trade; (merger paras 127, 338 section 1)

21. Appreciates the expressions of regret or remorse, apologies or payment of reparations, or restitution of cultural artifacts that have been forthcoming since the adoption of the DDPA; (para 15 section 1)

(Racial profiling, counter-terrorism)

22. Draws attention to the impact of counter-terrorism measures on the rise of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, including the practice of racial, ethnic, national and religious profiling; (para 34 section 1)

(Freedom of religion, incitement to religious intolerance, hatred, or violence, defamation of religion, freedom of expression)

23. Reaffirms the Declaration on the Elimination of All Forms of Intolerance and of Discrimination Based on Religion or Belief and expresses concern over intolerance and discrimination in the name of religion or belief; (merger paras 55, 325 section 1)
24. Recognizes with deep concern the global rise in the number of incidents of intolerance and violence against members of religious minorities in various parts of the world motivated by Islamophobia, anti-Arabism, anti-Semitism and Christianophobia; (merger paras 44, 56, 57, 135 section 1)
25. Condemns any advocacy of racial or religious hatred which constitutes incitement to discrimination, hostility or violence, and recognizes that only a competent, independent and impartial tribunal established by law may determine, case by case, in a fair and public hearing, whether the facts presented qualify as incitement to racial or religious hatred; (merger paras 41, 59, 229 section 1)
26. Notes with concern instances of defamation of religions, which manifests itself in generalized and stereotypical association of religions, in particular Islam, with violence and terrorism, thus impacting negatively on the rights of individuals belonging to these religions, including Muslim minorities, and exposing them to hatred and discrimination. Such situations are further aggravated by the imposition of restrictions on the profession of religions, including restrictions on the construction of places of worship and their surveillance; (merger paras 2, 42, 43, 45, 46 section 1)
27. Notes that discrimination on multiple grounds of religion, ethnicity or culture further affects enjoyment by religious minorities of their basic human rights including economic, social and cultural rights. (para 46 section 1)
28. Reaffirms a holistic approach to human rights guaranteeing the indivisibility of all human rights, and stresses that the fight against racial and religious hatred should not serve as a pretext to legitimize impermissible limitations to freedom of expression; (merger paras 326, 327, 58 section 1)

(Holocaust)

29. Affirms that the Holocaust, which resulted in the murder of one third of the Jewish people, along with numerous members of other minorities, will forever be a warning to all people of the dangers of hatred, bigotry, racism and prejudice; recalls again that the Holocaust must never be forgotten; (merger paras 181, 333 section 1)

(Middle East)

30. Expresses deep concern at the practices of racial discrimination against the Palestinian people as well as other inhabitants of the Arab occupied territories which have an impact on all aspects of their daily existence and prevent the enjoyment of fundamental rights, and renews the call for the cessation of all such practices; (para 93 section 5 streamlined and shortened)
31. Reiterates that the Palestinian people have the inalienable right to self determination and that, in order to consolidate the occupation, they have been subjected to unlawful collective punishment, torture, economic blockade, severe restriction of movement and arbitrary closure of their territories. Also notes that illegal settlements continue to be built in the occupied territories; (merger paras 127 section 5 – modified in accordance with DDPA – and 137 section 1 slightly shortened)
32. Reaffirms that a foreign occupation founded on settlements, laws based on racial discrimination with the aim of continuing domination of the occupied territory, as well as the practice of reinforcing a total military blockade, isolating towns, villages and cities from one another, contradicts the purposes and principles of the Charter of the United Nations; (para 72 section 1 shortened, similar para 9 section 4 deleted)
33. Reiterates deep concern about the plight of the Palestinian people under foreign occupation, including refugees and displaced persons, and urges respect for international human rights law, international refugee law and international humanitarian law, and calls for a just, comprehensive and lasting peace in the region; (merger paras 136, 138 section 1)
34. Re-emphasizes the responsibility of the international community to provide international protection, in particular from racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, for civilian populations under occupation in conformity with international human rights law and international humanitarian law; (para 139 section 1 shortened)

B. Victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance

(General provisions on victims, grounds of discrimination)

35. Acknowledges that all victims should receive the same attention, the same treatment and the same protection and that there should be no hierarchy among potential victims; (para 85 section 1)

(Africans and people of African descent)

36. Regrets recent attempts at the intellectual and scientific legitimization of racism, in particular the revival of negative stereotyping of Africans and People of African descent; (merger paras 39, 330, 91 section 1)
37. Identifies progress made in legislation and measures adopted by States to correct inequalities in access to education, health, housing, justice and employment by people of African descent.; (merger paras 243, 242 section 1)

(People of Asian descent)

(Indigenous people)

38. Notes progress in the adoption of legal and administrative measures to promote, protect and ensure the exercise by indigenous peoples of their rights, to enhance and strengthen their ethnic, cultural, religious and linguistic identities, and to ensure the exercise of their human rights and fundamental freedoms on an equal footing, free of discrimination, and their full and free participation in all spheres of society, particularly in matters that affect or interest them; (para 88, 246 section 1)
39. Notes with appreciation the adoption of the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous People and the creation of the Permanent Forum on Indigenous Issues, which have a positive impact on the protection of victims; (merger paras 87, 247, 335 section 1)
40. Identifies some progress in the adoption of legal and administrative measures to promote, enhance and strengthen the ethnic, cultural, religious and linguistic identities of indigenous peoples and to establish conditions for the respect thereof; (para 246 section 1)

(Migrants, refugees, asylum seekers, IDPs, stateless persons)

41. Recognizes that xenophobia against non-nationals, particularly migrants, refugees and asylum-seekers, constitutes one of the main sources of contemporary racism and that human rights violations against members of such groups occur widely in the context of discriminatory, xenophobic and racist practices; (para 66 section 1)
42. Deplores the persistence of xenophobic attitudes and negative stereotyping of non-citizens, including by law enforcement officials and in the media, that have led to xenophobic violence and killings targeting migrants, refugees and asylum seekers; (merger paras 27, 221, 224, 23, 24, 26, 107, 111, 116, 303 section 1)
43. Stresses the seriousness of the rise in racist and xenophobic manifestations and practices at points of entry to countries, reception areas and waiting zones, and stresses that it is inhuman and degrading for such areas to be “no-rights” zones for non-citizens in general, and for migrants, refugees and asylum seekers in particular; (merger paras 37, 109 section 1)

44. Recognizes the need to strengthen efforts towards fighting against illegal migration and the smuggling of migrants, which may lead to violence, discrimination, exploitation and abuse, and reiterates the importance of protecting the rights of migrants whether regular or irregular; (merger paras 28, 110, 116 section 1)
45. Expresses deep concern at passed or proposed legislation that counters commitments made under international human rights law, in particular with respect to the rights of migrant workers and the members of their families; (merger paras 108, 142, 220, 244, 245 section 1)
46. Recognizes the need for a comprehensive and balanced approach in dealing with migration issues, including by strengthening international dialogue on migration, developing real partnerships between countries of origin, transit and destination and exploring all possible synergies between management of migration and the promotion of development; (para 30 section 1)
47. Reiterates that the international response and policies, including financial assistance, towards refugee situations in different parts of the world should not be guided by considerations of race, color, descent, national or ethnic origin, nor based on the culture, religion and language of the refugees, and urges the international community to grant economic and financial assistance to affected States, particularly in the developing world, in order to adequately address refugee crises, and to remove the root causes of displacement; (merger paras 143, 144 section 1)
48. Urges States to refrain from taking discriminatory measures and from enacting or maintaining legislation that would arbitrarily deprive persons of their nationality on grounds of race, color, gender, religion, or national or ethnic origin, especially if such measures and legislation render a person stateless; (para 182 section 1)

(Roma, Gypsies, Sinti, Travellers)

49. Recognizes with deep concern the persistence of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance against Roma/Gypsies/Sinti/Travellers, and expresses concern over the violence affecting these communities; (merger paras 31, 32, 82 section 1)

(Ethnic, linguistic and religious minorities)

50. Welcomes efforts aimed at developing consultation with bodies representing persons belonging to minorities; (merger 133 section 1)
51. Expresses deep concern at the resurgence of racist and xenophobic violence targeting members of ethnic, religious or cultural communities and national minorities; (merger paras 145, 132 section 1)
52. Affirms that the identity of persons belonging to national or ethnic, religious and linguistic minorities must be protected and that such persons should be treated equally and enjoy their human rights and fundamental freedoms without discrimination of any kind, including discrimination based on work and descent; (para 131 section 1)

53. Acknowledges that a most disturbing phenomenon is the intellectual and ideological validation of Islamophobia. When it is expressed against migrants it takes the form of religious-ethnic or religious-racial tones, when it is expressed in the form of defamation of religions, it takes cover behind the freedom of expression and when it is expressed in the form of profiling, it hides behind the war against terrorism. Believes that association of terrorism and violence with Islam or any other religion, including through publication of offensive caricatures and making of hate documentaries, would purposely complicate our common endeavours to address several contemporary issues, including the fight against terrorism and the occupation of foreign territories and peoples; (para 45 section 1)

(Trafficking)

54. Recognizes that victims of trafficking are particularly exposed to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and that women and girl victims are often subject to multiple forms of discrimination and violence, including on the grounds of their gender, age, ethnicity, culture and religion, as well as their origins, and that these forms of discrimination themselves may fuel trafficking in persons; (para 119 section 1)
55. Recognizes the need to provide practical, rights-based approach policy guidance on the prevention of trafficking and the protection of trafficked persons with a view to facilitating the integration of a human rights perspective into national, regional, and international anti-trafficking laws, policies and interventions; (para 118 section 1)
56. Notes efforts by States and organizations to prevent and combat trafficking in persons and to enhance the protection of and assistance to victims of trafficking in persons, for instance the development of action plans and best practices, standards and procedures for combating and preventing trafficking in human beings; (para 120 section 1)

(Contemporary forms of slavery)

57. Recalling that slavery and slavery-like practices were recognized in the DDPa as crimes against humanity, recognizes that victims of slavery and slavery-like practices are particularly exposed to racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance and that women and girl victims are often subject to multiple forms of discrimination and violence, including on the grounds of their gender, age, ethnicity, culture and religion, as well as their origins, and that these forms of discrimination themselves may fuel slavery and slavery-like practices; (merger paras 15 a), 21 section 1)
58. Deplores the lack of willingness of certain countries to adopt measures to end enslavement and slavery-like practices, including contemporary forms of slavery, debt bondage, slavery, sexual exploitation or labour exploitation, which constitute flagrant violations of human rights; (para 126 section 1)

59. Stresses that the issue of contemporary forms of slavery needs to be given greater prominence and priority if these practices are to be eradicated once and for all; (para 16 section 1)

(Multiple discrimination)

60. Reiterates that discrimination on multiple grounds, as laid down in the DDPA, further affects the enjoyment of basic human rights and can lead to particular targeting or vulnerability (merger paras 3, 52 section 1), and welcomes measures to address multiple and aggravated forms of discrimination, particularly the efforts to adopt or improve penal or civil legislation in order to address these phenomena; (merger of 48, 49, 218, 237, 260, 50 section 1)
61. Notes with concern increased instances of discrimination on the multiple grounds of race and religion since 2001; (para 3 section 1)

(Women, gender, children)

62. Strongly condemns all acts of violence, whether these acts are perpetrated by States, private persons or non-State actors, against women and girls and calls for the elimination of all forms of gender-based violence in the family, within the general community, and where perpetrated or condoned by the State, in accordance with international human rights norms and standards, including the Declaration on the Elimination of Violence against Women; (merger 53, 54 section 1)
63. Stresses the need to treat all forms of violence against women and children as a criminal offence, punishable by law, as well as the duty to provide access to just and effective remedies and specialized assistance to victims, including medical and psychological assistance and effective counseling; (para 104 section 1)
64. Underlines the challenges and obstacles to changing discriminatory attitudes and gender stereotypes and stresses that challenges and obstacles remain in the implementation of international standards and norms to address the inequality between men and women; (para 60 section 1)
65. Recognizes with concern that instances of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance lead to sexual exploitation of women and children especially the girl child; (para 105 section 1)
66. Acknowledge that although all children are exposed to violence, some children, because of their gender, race, ethnic origin, disability or social status, are particularly vulnerable; (para 141 section 1)

(Migrant women)

67. Expresses deep concern at continuing reports of grave abuses and violence committed against migrant women and children (also nationals), including gender-based violence, in particular sexual violence, trafficking, domestic and family violence, racist and xenophobic acts, abusive labor practices and exploitative conditions of work; (para 102 section 1)

(HIV/AIDS)

68. Notes progress in the adoption of policies and programmes to improve the prevention of HIV/AIDS in high-risk communities and to eradicate multiple discrimination against persons living with HIV/AIDS; (para 187 section 1)

69. Condemns all forms of discrimination and all other human rights violations based on sexual orientation; (para 51 section 1)

C. Measures of prevention, education and protection aimed at the eradication of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance at all levels

(General provisions on measures)

70. Recognizes that prevention is a key element of any political strategy to combat racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, to promote cohesion, and to tackle community tensions; (merger paras 166, 171 section 1)
71. Stresses the necessity of increasing appropriate preventive measures in order to eliminate all forms of racial discrimination and the important role that Governments, international organizations, the media, non-governmental organizations and civil society can play in developing such measures and building confidence between different racial and ethnic groups; (para 169 section 1)

(Monitoring, data collection)

72. Notes with appreciation the activities of information networks on racism and xenophobia in some countries which collect relevant information and develop strategies to combat these phenomena, while also highlighting and disseminating good practices in tackling them; (para 154 section 1 modified)
73. Acknowledges the importance of making progress in gathering data and other human development indicators disaggregated by race and ethnicity, whether by conducting censuses or by collecting, compiling, analyzing and providing data at the national and local levels, which should also take into consideration such social and economic indicators as average income, access to health services, maternal and infant mortality, life expectancy, literacy rate, access to education, employment opportunities, quality of housing, land ownership and access to water, health and communications services; (para 156 section 1)

(Tackling discrimination in (access to) education, employment, health)

74. Welcomes the adoption of legislation to address discrimination and victimization in employment and training, the provision of goods, facilities and services, education, housing and public functions; (para 251 section 1)
75. Welcomes preventive initiatives to tackle discrimination in employment such as programmes for training and counseling of excluded persons belonging to a minority to help them in the labour market, programmes for employers to combat discrimination or to raise cultural awareness, some examples of mentoring and of positive action in recruitment, and some further experiments with contract compliance and anonymous job applications; (para 167 section 1)

(National action plans)

((Human rights) education, training or sensitizing professionals, awareness raising, communication)

76. Believes that education, including human rights education, is essential to the realization of all human rights and fundamental freedoms, is key for the promotion of respect for the cultural diversity of societies, and contributes significantly to promoting equality and preventing conflict and human rights violations, as well as enhancing participation and democratic values, with a view to developing societies in which all human beings are valued and respected; (merger paras 158, 161 section 1)
77. Recognizes that national legislation to promote human rights education has been approved in all regions of the globe after the adoption in 2001 of the DDPA, particularly in order to sensitize the public at large with regard to the cultural identity of minorities; (para 157 section 1 shortened and slightly modified)
78. Acknowledges the development and implementation of training and educational activities on human rights from an anti-racist and anti-sexist perspective, in particular for public officials, as well as awareness-raising and information campaigns; (merger paras 186, 195, 332 section 1)

(Intercultural dialogue, interreligious dialogue)

79. Affirms the need to intensify engagement by all interested parties in a constructive and genuine dialogue rooted in mutual respect and understanding with a view to overcoming existing gaps in perceptions, concepts and ideas; (para 321 section 1)
80. Reaffirms that the eradication of racism, racial prejudice and xenophobia should aim not only to promote equality and eliminate discrimination but also to promote interactions between ethnic, cultural and religious communities, in particular in multicultural societies; (para 258 section 1)

81. Notes with appreciation the increasing number of initiatives to promote intercultural dialogue; (para 318 section 1)

(Political parties and programmes, political participation, Parliaments)

(National institutions, national specialized bodies and mechanisms)

82. Notes significant progress in the creation of independent national human rights institutions addressing racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, as well as specialized State bodies and mechanisms responsible for formulating and implementing public policies to eradicate discrimination and to promote racial equality; (merger paras 261, 213, 274 section 1)
83. Deplores the fact that some countries have not yet established independent human rights and other relevant institutions; (para 275, part 1 section 1)

(Media)

84. Takes note that while much progress is still needed, particularly in the area of self-regulation and diversity training of media professionals, important action has taken place since the adoption of the DDPA. Diversity training for journalists has been promoted as a key preventive measure against negative stereotyping and discrimination. Independent media councils composed of media professionals charged with assessing issues related to racism in the media have also been formed in many countries. In some cases, these councils have been mandated to receive complaints of racism in the media and to advise editors and publishers accordingly. The media has also been effectively used as a means to promote more balanced representation of members of minorities, who have increasing access to high visibility functions in many countries; (para 331 section 1)

(Civil society, NGOs)

85. Welcomes the numerous awareness-raising activities involving States, in order to promote and disseminate the values and practices underlying the fight against discrimination, including through financial support for the projects of civil society; (paras 214 section 1)
86. Welcomes the role and participation of civil society, human rights non-governmental organisations, and human rights defenders in the struggle against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, in particular the implementation of the Durban Declaration and the Plan of Action; (para 277, 279 section 1)
87. Notes with concern the precarious situation of human rights defenders and non-governmental organisations, including anti-racist non-governmental organizations, which undermines the struggle against racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance; (merger para 280, 283 section 1)

D. Provision of effective remedies, recourse, redress, and compensatory and other measures at all levels

(Law enforcement, administration of justice, access to justice, sanctions)

88. Recalls that access to justice implies the possibility of defending a case before a tribunal, as well as the proper functioning of the whole system of administration of justice, including affirmative action for vulnerable groups, as needed. The obstacles that impede access to justice are often connected to discriminatory practices affecting vulnerable groups. These groups face difficulties in accessing justice because of different kinds of barriers, in particular cultural and linguistic barriers; (para 227 section 1 modified)
89. Affirms the importance of an effective and independent judiciary to allow the victims of racism to seek adequate redress; (para 226 section 1)
90. Acknowledges the need to formulate and put in place specific programmes to prevent, investigate, and, when required, bring to trial and punish acts of serious misconduct by police officers and other law-enforcement officials prompted by racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance; (merger paras 232, 233 section 1)
91. Stresses the need to strengthen the information related to access to mechanisms for reporting complaints or providing assistance during legal proceedings for victims of racism, for instance by developing awareness campaigns or by establishing special complaints boards; (para 228 section 1)
92. Identifies the need for greater progress in the implementation of measures to facilitate access by victims of racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance to an administration of justice that ensures just and adequate reparation for any damage suffered, together with legal assistance in a form adapted to victims' special needs and vulnerability; (para 248 section 1)

(International tribunals, ICC)

93. Expresses its full support of the work of the existing international criminal tribunals and calls for the universal ratification of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court; (para 314 section 1)
94. Expresses concern over the lack of willingness of certain countries to cooperate with international criminal tribunals; (para 313 section 1)

(Democracy, elections)

95. Recalls that democracy is incompatible with the continued existence of racism; (para 255, section 1)
96. Notes progress made by some States in the field of democracy, the rule of law, transparent, responsible, accountable and participatory governance, including through electoral support such as assistance and election observation missions in line with best international practice, but notes also that challenges remain in parts of the world; (merger paras 263, 264, 275 (part 2) section 1)

(Affirmative action, special measures, positive action)

97. Identifies progress in programmes to foster racial equality in favour of people of African descent, such as affirmative action programmes for access to higher education; and stresses the importance of making progress in putting in place affirmative action policies in key sectors, such as access to education and employment, health and social security, political participation and investment in infrastructure that benefits communities in which people of African descent, indigenous peoples and other groups suffering from discrimination live; (merger paras 174, 188 section 1)

(OHCHR, UN system, international and regional organizations, international cooperation, technical assistance or cooperation)
