Introductory note

The present chapter concerns the interpretation and application of rules 6 to 12 of the provisional rules of procedure of the Security Council, relating to the agenda. The chapter is divided into three parts: part I, The provisional agenda (rules 6-8 and rule 12); part II, Adoption of the agenda (rule 9); and part III, The agenda and matters of which the Security Council is seized (rules 10 and 11).

Part I provides information concerning the circulation, preparation and communication of the provisional agenda (rules 6-8 and rule 12). No material was found requiring treatment under rules 6, 8 and 12. One case study is included concerning the preparation of the agenda under rule 7 (case 1).

Part II relates to material on the procedure and practice of the Security Council in connection with the adoption of the agenda.

Part III relates to the list of matters of which the Council is seized. Action was, however, taken by the Council during the period under review relating to rule 11. Section B contains two case studies on the deletion of items from the agenda of the Security Council (cases 2 and 3). The tables in section B supplement the tables contained in previous volumes of the Repertoire and indicate the changes that have since occurred in the list of matters of which the Security Council is seized.

Part I

The provisional agenda (rules 6-8 and 12)

Note

The provisional agenda, prepared by the Secretary-General and approved by the President of the Security Council in accordance with rule 7, includes those items that have been brought to the attention of the Council under rule 6. Under rule 6, “the Secretary-General shall immediately bring to the attention of all representatives on the Security Council all communications from States, organs of the United Nations, or the Secretary-General concerning any matter for the consideration of the Security Council in accordance with the provisions of the Charter”. Effect is normally given to this rule by the distribution of communications as documents in the S/ series. During the period under review, there were no instances in which the question of circulation of communications arose. Communications from regional arrangements or agencies received pursuant to Article 54 of the Charter are also circulated in the S/ series of documents.

Rule 7 entrusts the drawing up of the provisional agenda for each meeting to the Secretary-General, subject to the approval of the President of the Security Council. The Secretary-General’s discretion with respect to the inclusion of new items is restricted to those items that have been brought to the attention of the Council under rule 6. In addition to the express provisions of rule 7, the Secretary-General also has to take into account whether a specific request to include the item has been made. During the period under review, there was one instance in which a Member State that had requested the consideration by the Council of an issue as a formal agenda item commented on its request in a subsequent meeting of the Security Council (case 1).

Rule 8 concerns communication of the provisional agenda and rule 12, paragraph 1, concerns such communication for periodic meetings.

A. Preparation of the provisional agenda (rule 7)

Rule 7

The provisional agenda for each meeting of the Security Council shall be drawn up by the Secretary-

General and approved by the President of the Security Council.

Only items which have been brought to the attention of the representatives on the Security Council in accordance with rule 6, items covered by rule 10, or matters which the Security Council had previously decided to defer, may be included in the provisional agenda.

Case 1

At the 3212th meeting, on 11 May 1993, the Council considered, inter alia, the question of non-compliance by the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea with the Agreement between itself and the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA) concerning the Application of Safeguards in Connection with the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons.¹

At the outset of the meeting, the representative of the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea reminded the members of the Council that he had officially requested the Council, through its President, to consider the issue of the abuse of the Safeguards Agreement by IAEA at a meeting of the Security Council “if it is convened to consider the issues of implementation of the Safeguards Agreement between the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea and IAEA”.² He expressed the hope that his request would be “considered as a formal agenda item, in accordance with the relevant provisions of the United Nations Charter and the provisional rules of procedure of the Security Council”.³

¹ At its 3212th meeting, the Security Council considered this question under the item entitled “Letter dated 12 March 1993 from the Permanent Representative of the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea to the United Nations addressed to the President of the Security Council (S/25405); letter dated 19 March 1993 from the Secretary-General addressed to the President of the Security Council (S/25445); note by the Secretary-General (S/25556)”.

² Letter addressed to the President of the Security Council by the representative of the Democratic People’s Republic of Korea (S/25747).

³ See S/PV.3212, p. 7.

During the period under review, the issue raised by the Democratic People's Republic of Korea was not considered as a formal agenda item by the Security Council.

B. Communication of the provisional agenda (rule 8)

Rule 8

The provisional agenda for a meeting shall be communicated by the Secretary-General to the representatives on the Security Council at least three days before the meeting, but in urgent circumstances it may be communicated simultaneously with the notice of the meeting.

The provisional agenda for each ordinary meeting of the Security Council is drawn up by the Secretary-General and, after approval by the President, it is communicated to members at least three days before the meeting. In practice, however, in urgent circumstances, which are often the case, the provisional agenda may be communicated simultaneously with the notice of the meeting. In addition, the provisional agenda is usually approved in advance in informal consultations and formally adopted at the meeting of the Council.

During the period under review, the practice of the Council with respect to its agenda evolved. In a note by the President of the Security Council dated 30 June 1993, the President noted that the members of the Security Council had agreed on a proposal to include the provisional agenda for formal meetings in the Journal, provided that it had been approved in informal consultations.⁴ In addition, by a presidential statement dated 4 November 1994, the President referred to the decision of the Council that "the time and venue of each meeting with members of the Council and troop-contributors to a peacekeeping operation should, where possible, appear in advance in the Journal of the United Nations".⁵ During the period under review, the Council also began the practice of posting the agenda of informal consultations in the Journal.

Part II Adoption of the agenda (rule 9)

Rule 9

The first item of the provisional agenda for each meeting of the Security Council shall be the adoption of the agenda.

Note

During the period under review, there was no instance involving discussion by the Council regarding the adoption of the agenda. However, on a number of occasions the President of the Council made preliminary remarks before the adoption of the agenda. This was in accordance with past practice and included expressions of thanks, congratulations, tributes and expressions of sympathy.⁶

During the period under review, the Council considered ways of improving the list of matters of which it was seized (see part III of the present chapter). A note by the President of the Council dated 29 November 1993 addressed the issue of the phrasing of items on the agenda.⁷ It stated that the members of the Council had recalled "the desirability, whenever possible, of using descriptive formulations of agenda items at the time of their initial adoption to avoid having a number of separate agenda items on the same subject. When such a descriptive formulation existed, consideration might be given to subsuming earlier agenda items on the same subject under the descriptive formulation”.⁸

⁸ See also S/PV. 3611. At its meeting held on 20 December 1995 to consider the item entitled “An agenda for peace: peacekeeping”, the Council considered a letter dated 8 December 1995 (S/1995/1025) from 34 Member States, including 9 members of the Security Council, in which they requested that a meeting be convened to examine specifically the issue of consultations between the Security Council and the troop-contributing countries in order to consider further measures to enhance arrangements for such consultations. The representative of Spain, commenting on the phrasing of the item, noted that the subject being discussed, curiously enough, did not explicitly appear in the agenda for that meeting.

Part III

The agenda and matters of which the Security Council is seized (rules 10 and 11)

A. Continuation of discussion of agenda items (rule 10)

Rule 10

Any item of the agenda of a meeting of the Security Council, consideration of which has not been completed at that meeting, shall, unless the Security Council otherwise decides, automatically be included in the agenda of the next meeting.

Rule 10 of the provisional rules of procedure was designed to enable the Security Council to continue, at its next meeting, the consideration of an item of unfinished business without subjecting that item to renewed debate in connection with the adoption of the agenda. On a number of occasions, separate consecutive meetings were held on the same agenda item. In other instances, the meeting was suspended and resumed until the Council had completed that stage of its consideration of the item.⁹

⁹ See, for example, the 3168th meeting, on the situation in Angola, held on 29 January 1993, suspended and resumed on the same day; the 3282nd meeting on the question concerning Haiti, held on 23 September 1993, suspended and resumed on the same day; the 3454th meeting on the situation in the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina, held on 8 November 1994, suspended and resumed the following day; the 3492nd meeting on an agenda for peace, held on 18 January 1995, suspended and renewed the same day, then suspended again and resumed the following day; and the 3611th meeting on an agenda for peace: peacekeeping, held on 20 December 1995, suspended and resumed on the same day.

B. Retention and deletion of items from the list of matters of which the Security Council is seized (rule 11)

Rule 11

The Secretary-General shall communicate each week to the representatives on the Security Council a summary statement of matters of which the Security Council is seized and of the stage reached in their consideration.

In previous volumes of the Repertoire, it was noted that items on the agenda of the Council had remained on the Secretary-General’s “summary statement of matters of which the Security Council is seized” (rule 11) when the tenor of the Council’s discussion or its specific decisions revealed a continuing concern with the matter. Additional evidence supporting such retention was provided when the President of the Council announced, upon conclusion of the debate, that the Council remained seized of a question.

During the period under review, as part of the efforts to improve the documentation of the Security Council, the members of the Council reviewed the list of matters of which the Council was seized and decided to remove 105 items from that list after extensive consideration and appropriate consultation by the informal working group concerning the Council’s documentation and other procedural questions. This decision was conveyed in two notes by the President of the Council dated, respectively, 29 November 1993 and 28 July 1994.¹⁰ The note dated 29 November 1993 also stated, inter alia, that neither the removal of a matter from the list nor its retention carried any implication for the substance of the matter, and that the Council might at any time decide to include any matter in the agenda of a meeting of the Council, whether or not it was included in the list.

1. Proceedings of the Security Council regarding the retention and deletion of items from the list of matters of which it is seized

In practice, deletion of an item takes place following a request addressed to the Secretary-General by the Member States parties to the issue in question. Such a request is brought to the attention of the members of the Council in an informal communication seeking their consent to the deletion of the item. In the absence of any objection on the part of the members of the Council, the Secretary-General deletes the item in question from the annual list of matters of which the Council is seized. Items may also be deleted with the consent of the Council, on the initiative of the President or individual members of the Council or by a decision at the close of a debate.

The tables set out in subsection 2 of this part show that, during the period under review, the Council included 61 new items in the list of matters of which it was seized and deleted 108 items, including 105 items mentioned in the two notes by the President of the Security Council dated respectively 29 November 1993 and 28 July 1994. Of the deleted items, one was deleted by the Secretary-General, with the consent of the Council, pursuant to a request by a Member State.¹¹

At its 3312th meeting, on 11 November 1993, the Security Council included in its agenda an item entitled "Letters dated 20 and 23 December 1991, from France, the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland and the United States of America (S/23306,

S/23307, S/23308, S/23309 and S/23317)".¹² The President stated that, as agreed in the Council's prior consultations, the formulation of the item on the agenda which had just been adopted would overtake the two earlier formulations under which the same item had been discussed.¹³ Since those two items had been subsumed under the item just adopted, they would accordingly be deleted from the list of matters of which the Security Council was seized.

Case 3

At its 3393rd meeting, on 27 June 1994, the Council concluded its consideration of the agenda item entitled "The question of South Africa" and, in accordance with paragraph 4 of resolution 930 (1994), adopted at the same meeting, decided to remove that item from the list of matters of which the Council was seized.¹⁴

2. Retention and deletion of items from the list of matters of which the Security Council is seized

The tables contained in this section supplement those contained in the previous volumes of the Repertoire and indicate the changes that have occurred in the list of matters of which the Council is seized. Table A indicates items added to the list of matters of which the Council was seized during the period 1993-1995; table B indicates items appearing on previous lists for which new action by the Security Council was reported in the summary statements during that period; and table C indicates items deleted from the list during the same period.

The two earlier formulations were: "Letters dated 20 and 23 December 1991" and "(a) Letters dated 20 and 23 December 1991; (b) Report by the Secretary-General pursuant to paragraph 4 of Security Council resolution 731 (1992); (c) Further report by the Secretary-General pursuant to paragraph 4 of Security Council resolution 731 (1992)".

¹¹ Pursuant to the request contained in a letter dated 15 September 1993 from the Permanent Representative of Venezuela to the United Nations, the Secretary-General, with the consent of the Security Council, removed the item entitled "Letter dated 2 April 1992 from the Permanent Representative of Venezuela to the United Nations addressed to the President of the Security Council" (see S/1994/20, para. 5).
