

POLAND

DESERTIFICATION

The Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development has started working on the national farmland irrigation programme. It is intended to make better use of irrigation water through the modernisation of the existing surface (gravity) irrigation systems, including facilities with so-called controlled water outflow (without external water inputs), increasing pressure irrigation using water consumption reduction techniques.