

ODA still crucial for development

The financial landscape in developing countries has changed dramatically in the last decade. Today, domestic resources, FDI, remittances and other flows are often much larger than ODA in financial terms. However, in many countries ODA is still the most important source of financing. It is both an effective means to create real change in demanding environments and a tool for better education and health systems, stable institutions and sustainable infrastructure.

In this event, ministers and high level speakers from Ethiopia, Mozambique, Sweden and the United Arab Emirates outline the future of ODA, describe the difference it has made and discuss new priorities.

TUESDAY, 14 JULY 2015

6:15 pm – 7:45 pm

AT HOTEL RADISSON BLU, SHOLLA 1, ADDIS ABABA

Please note that accreditation to either the Third International Conference for development, registration for the International Business Forum or a Side Event badge is required to access this event.

SPEAKERS INCLUDE:

H.E. Mr. Stefan Löfven

Prime Minister of Sweden

H.E. Ms. Isabella Lövin

Minister for International Development Cooperation,
Ministry for Foreign Affairs, Sweden

H.E. Mr. Ato Ahmed Shide

State Minister, Government of Ethiopia

H.E. Mr. Adriano Maleiane

Minister of Economy and Finance, Mozambique

H.E. Mr. Majid Al Suwaidi

Head of Climate Affairs, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, the United Arab Emirates

For registration, please contact
jenny.akerback@sida.se

