SIDE EVENT

PROGRESSIVE TAXES FOR REDUCED INEQUALITIES

FOCUS ON SDG 10.4 AND SDG 17.1

APRIL 15 2019

1:15 PM - 2:30 PM

ROOM S-2726 / 27 FLOOR

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS - NEW YORK

SPEAKERS

Magdalena Sepulveda Carmona, Commissioner for the Independent Commission for the Reform of International Corporate Taxation (ICRICT) and former Special Rapporteur on Human Rights and Extreme Poverty: the relationship between tax, poverty eradication and human rights, focusing on the concrete tax reforms needed.

Yandura Chipeta, ActionAid Malawi: progressive taxation, and funding public services to reduce inequality.

Anders Dahlbeck, Danish Institute for Human Rights: a human rights based approach to SDG17.

Tawanda Mutasah, Amnesty International: the links between human rights law and SDG10, including concrete national level action.

This event will provide an opportunity to explore how we ensure progressive taxes contribute to additional and high quality financing for development. It will also look at how progressive taxation can reduce inequalities in line with SDG 10, and how we can ensure that funds are raised while protecting and promoting human rights.
