

Margaret Lombe, PhD, is an assistant professor at the Boston College Graduate School of Social Work. She is also a faculty associate at the Center for Social Development at Washington University in Saint Louis. Her area of expertise is in international social development with an emphasis on social inclusion/exclusion and capacity building. Her research focuses on understanding the role of institutions, civic service, and asset building in influencing inclusion.

Lombe has published chapters and articles on the issue of poverty and social inclusion; and has presented papers at both local and international conferences in this field. Her recent work has appeared in refereed journals including: Journal of Human Behavior in the Social Environment; Social Work Research; Journal of Community Practice; Journal of Sociology and Social Welfare; Social Development Issues; and Families in Society: The Journal of Contemporary Social Services.