

Brief Profile

Jennifer Hazen holds a PhD in International Relations from Georgetown University. Dr. Hazen formerly served as a Political Affairs Officer for the UN peacekeeping mission in Sierra Leone, UNAMSIL. Prior to this, she worked as a consultant and research analyst for the international non-governmental organization International Crisis Group, the international consultancy firm Management Systems International, and the U.S. State Department. She has worked and conducted field research in Sierra Leone, Liberia, Guinea, Ivory Coast, and Senegal. Her main research interests include: civil war dynamics, international networks, post-conflict reconstruction, peacekeeping, U.S. foreign policy, and international relations.