

MEASURES THAT CAN BE INITIATED BY THE COMMISSION (CROATIA) IN PEACE BUILDING AND SUSTAINING PEACE

In Today's era for the overall growth and development of nations, peace needs to be sustained, nurtured and restored so that every sector of the economy witnesses formidable progress in a continuous manner. Peace building arises when two or more nations are engaged in war, hence remedial measures needs to be taken to de-escalate tensions between conflicting States or Nations. Subsequently all possible steps must be taken for building peace and harmony for the economic growth of the Nations. We are all aware that wars happen and conflicts arise across the countries over various issues from time to time.

The peacebuilding commission can do a lot in strengthening multilateralism by not only understanding issues of conflict and agendas as it has Experts on its panel and are experienced enough to tackle sensitive issues and in finding rational and sustainable solutions in order to remove the stalemate between two or more warring Nations and establish long lasting solutions to mitigate the sufferings of the people and to restore permanent peace and prosperity in that region, paving the way for the overall growth of such conflicting Nations. Sincere and concerted efforts should be initiated by multilateral countries who have common interest that focuses on the root cause of the issues of conflict. They need to find solutions that are acceptable to both the parties in question to restore peace and tranquillity.

We have witnessed phenomenal growth in the past couple of decades due to peace prevailing in most of the countries of the world. When there is political stability, then the governments engage in developmental activities and a substantial amount of the annual budget is allocated to boost various Economic activities. This results in the progression of Nations when peace is restored and sustained. Majority of the countries exchange goods and services with one another, thereby exports and imports get a fillip when Nations of the world come closer to one another, bilateral trade can increase formidably. Most of the developed and developing Nations earn foreign exchange through tourism, students go abroad for advanced studies in various streams of education in foreign universities and colleges. This in effect is possible only when peace is sustained by all the Nations of the world, peace can be sustained when the nations try to find out the root cause for instability. Every society must become tolerant to avoid conflicts of any kind. Peace can be sustained when we have stable and well functioning Governments. The Governments must establish harmonious and cordial relationships with its neighbouring countries and the environment must be conducive for promotion of bilateral business .As resources are limited, hence there has to be equitable distribution of available resources for the uniform growth of Economies around the world. Technology is fast progressing as a result of free flow of information amongst Nations of the world due to sustainable peace.

The United Nations has always been in the forefront by initiating peacebuilding measures by resolving conflicts, it has also done commendable work in sustaining peace on a continuous basis that has paved the way for overall development and growth of Nations under its purview.
