Oath of office of the Secretary-General

I, [name], solemnly swear to exercise in all loyalty, discretion and conscience the functions entrusted to me as Secretary-General of the United Nations, to discharge these functions and regulate my conduct with the interests of the United Nations only in view and in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations, without seeking or accepting any instructions in regard to the performance of my duties from any Government or other authority external to the Organization.

Guidelines for organizing in-person side events at the UN Headquarters during the General Assembly general debate and other high-level sessions

1. Each delegation can be the main organizer of only one side event that is hosted by that delegation on their own or with up to four other co-sponsors, which could be Member States and observers of the General Assembly and/or relevant UN agencies, funds and programmes.
2. If the side event is hosted by an international organisation, an established group of Member States traditionally active within the UN context or co-sponsored by a group of six or more Member States or observers of the General Assembly, there is a limit of two side events. The main organizer always needs to be clearly indicated. All other partners remain co-sponsors.
3. The same delegation should not be the main organizer of more than two side events and a co-sponsor of more than two additional side events, in line with paragraphs 1 and 2 of these guidelines.
4. The Secretariat shall adjust, within existing resources, its registration system for side events in such a way that it will require delegations to indicate clearly in which category they are applying for the side event (as per paragraphs 1 and 2 of these guidelines), who are the other co-sponsors and which other side event(s) they are involved in as a main organizer or a co-sponsor. The applications for side events can only be submitted by their main organizers.
5. These guidelines do not apply to virtual side events or to side events organized outside of the UN Headquarters.
