1. The situation concerning Western Sahara

During the period under review, the Security Council held two meetings and adopted two resolutions regarding the situation concerning Western Sahara. The Council also met twice, once in 2016 and once in 2017, with countries contributing troops to the United Nations Mission for the Referendum in Western Sahara (MINURSO), pursuant to resolution 1353 (2001). More information on meetings, including on participants, speakers and outcomes, is given in the table below.

By resolutions 2285 (2016) and 2351 (2017), the Council extended the mandate of MINURSO for two periods of one year each, until 30 April 2017 and 30 April 2018, respectively. At a meeting held on 29 April 2016, the Council considered the most recent report of the Secretary-General, in which he reported, inter alia, the decision by Morocco to request civilian staff of MINURSO to leave the area of operation. At the meeting, the Council adopted resolution 2285 (2016), in which it emphasized the urgent need for MINURSO to return to full functionality, and called upon all parties to cooperate fully with the operations of MINURSO, including its free interaction with all interlocutors, and to take the steps necessary to ensure the security of as well as unhindered movement and immediate access for the United Nations and associated personnel in carrying out their mandate, in conformity with existing agreements. Against the backdrop of increased tensions in the buffer strip in Guerguerat, the Council adopted resolution 2351 (2017) in April 2017, in which it encouraged the Secretary-General to explore ways to resolve the fundamental questions raised by the crisis. The Council requested the Secretary-General to brief it on a regular basis, and at least twice a year, on the status and progress of the relaunching of negotiations, on the implementation of resolution 2351 (2017), and on challenges to the Mission’s operations and steps taken to address them.

In addition, the Council requested the Secretary-General to update it within six months of the appointment of the new Personal Envoy on the ways in which the Personal Envoy, working with the parties, was progressing towards a mutually acceptable political solution, which would provide for the self-determination of the people of Western Sahara; how the Mission’s performance measures were being developed and implemented; how the Mission’s structures and staffing could be reorganized to achieve mission goals efficiently; and how new technologies were to be considered to reduce risk, improve force protection and better implement the mandate of MINURSO.

In a letter dated 30 May 2017, the Council took note of the intention of the Secretary-General to appoint his new Personal Envoy for Western Sahara.
