SDG Pavilion

2-13 DECEMBER
MADRID, SPAIN

The SDG Pavilion at the UN Climate Change Conference, COP25, in Madrid, Spain, aims to bring together experts and policymakers leading the implementation of climate action and the Sustainable Development Goals around the world for a series of discussions on how to accelerate action across both the Paris Agreement on climate change and the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. From 2 to 13 December 2019, the SDG Pavilion will provide a platform for practitioners, policymakers and experts across all sectors and levels to share experiences and ideas on how best to leverage tangible action on the ground through policies, programmes, multi-stakeholder action and partnerships by making use of climate-SDG synergies to achieve the SDGs and implement climate action, thus maximizing benefits and leaving no one behind.

The SDG Pavilion will host interactive dialogues and discussions on key thematic areas such as climate, energy, oceans, water, food, gender and transport. It is organized by the UN Department of Economic and Social Affairs in partnership with United Nations Climate Change and in collaboration with UN entities and other partners.
