

Roundtable Two: Insights from Young Women Economists on Jobs and Climate Action Bios in Alphabetical Order

Convened by:

Amina J. Mohammed

United Nations
Deputy Secretary-
General

Deputy Secretary-General of the United Nations and Chair of the United Nations Sustainable Development Group

Former Minister of Environment of the Federal Republic of Nigeria from November 2015 to December 2016, where she steered the country's efforts on climate action, protecting the natural environment, and conserving resources for sustainable development

Led the process that resulted in global agreement around the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development and the creation of the Sustainable Development Goals.

<https://www.un.org/sg/en/dsg/index.shtml>

@AminaJMohammed

Laura Carvalho

Associate Professor of Economics at the University of São
Paulo

Associate Professor of Economics at the University of São Paulo.

Author of the best-selling book "Valsa Brasileira: do boom ao caos econômico" on the rise and fall of the Brazilian economy, published in Brazil in 2018, and former weekly columnist for the major Brazilian newspaper Folha de S. Paulo between 2015 and 2019. She is the female economist with the largest twitter following in the world.

Ms. Carvalho holds a PhD in Economics from the New School for Social Research. Her research focuses on topics in macroeconomics and development economics, and particularly on the relationship between economic growth and income distribution.

<https://www.ineteconomics.org/research/experts/lcarvalho>

@lauraabcarvalho

H.E. Sri Mulyani Indrawati

Minister of Finance
of Indonesia

Minister of Finance for Indonesia since 2016, a position she also held from 2005-2010. Ms. Indrawati was formerly Managing Director of the World Bank Group. She was elected as the 23rd most influential woman in the world from Forbes magazine in 2008 and the 2nd most influential woman in Indonesia from Globe Asia Magazine in October 2007.

Bogolo J.
Kenewendo

Former Cabinet Minister of Investment, Trade,
and Industry, in the Cabinet of Botswana

African economist and the former Minister of Investment, Trade, and Industry in Botswana. She is currently the Managing Director of Kenewendo Advisory and a Non-Resident Fellow with the Center for Global Development

She brings an array of expertise which includes sustainable economic development; trade, investment, and industrialization policies; digitalization; private sector development and regulatory reform.

Served as a member of the United Nations Secretary-General's High-Level Panel on Digital Cooperation; a member of the World Economic Forum (WEF) Global Future Council for Global Public Goods in the Fourth Industrial Revolution; a WEF Young Global Leader; a member of the African Leadership Academy for Governance Board of Advisors and an Independent Non-Executive Director of RDC Properties.

<https://www.cgdev.org/expert/bogolo-j-kenewendo>

@BogoloKenewendo

Maty Konte

Research
Fellow/Economist
at United Nations
University (UNU-MERIT).

Senegalese national and is currently a Research Fellow at Columbia University and Expert to the Dutch Ministry of Foreign Affairs Knowledge' Platform on Inclusive Development Policies in Africa (INCLUDE). She is also a Research Associate at the United-Nations University in the Netherlands and an affiliated faculty at the African School of Economics in Benin.

As a social entrepreneur, she is the founder of ISTP, an online platform that connects farmers and agribusinesses in the African market with leaders in agricultural and climate-smart technologies. She has worked with and provided technical assistance to the UN, World Bank, African think tanks and research centers, Bank of France and universities in France and the USA.

She has obtained a Ph.D. in economics and completed an executive education certificate from Harvard University and a certificate on project management from Georgetown University. She has recently co-edited two books on women's empowerment, migration, remittances, and the SDGs in Africa.

https://www.merit.unu.edu/about-us/profile/?staff_id=1964

@konteunumerit

Nadia Ouedraogo

Economic Affairs
Officer at Economic Commission of Africa

Economic Affairs Office at UN-Economic Commission for Africa. She was formerly a research fellow at the UN-University World Institute for Development Economics Research (UNU-WIDER) and as a researcher and teaching assistant at the Centre of Geopolitics for Energy and Raw Materials (CGEMP) of University Paris-Dauphine. She holds a PhD in Economics, and a Master's degree in International and Development Economics and Finance from University Paris-Dauphine.

Her research expertise includes macroeconomics, sustainable development, inclusive green growth, energy, and climate change mitigation policies. She coauthored a book on The New Energy Crisis: Climate, Economics, and Geopolitics published by Palgrave Macmillan.

@ouedraogo_nadia

Dyah Pritadrajati

Social Protection
Expert at Asian Development Bank

Social protection M&E expert at the Asian Development Bank. Her research interests lie primarily in the intersection of labor and education economics, particularly on technical and vocational education and training (TVET). She is an Indonesian national.

She has worked with the Oxford Poverty and Human Development Initiative (OPHI), Economic Research Institute for ASEAN and East Asia (ERIA), and Executive Office of the President of Republic of Indonesia. She holds master degrees from the University of Oxford and the University of Cambridge

Kate Raworth

Senior Associate,
Oxford University's Environmental Change Institute

Senior Research Associate at Oxford University's Environmental Change Institute, where she teaches a Masters in Environmental Change and Management. She is also Professor of Practice at Amsterdam University of Applied Sciences. Her internationally acclaimed framework of Doughnut Economics has been widely influential amongst sustainable development thinkers, progressive businesses and political activists, and has been translated into 18 languages. She holds a first class BA in Politics, Philosophy and Economics, and an MSc in Economics for Development, both from Oxford University.

<https://www.kateraworth.com/>

@KateRaworth

Carys Roberts

Executive Director of the Institute for Public Policy
Research in the UK

Executive Director of IPPR, the UK's leading progressive think tank. Prior to taking up the role, she was the Chief Economist and Head of the Centre for Economic Justice at IPPR. Carys was a key contributor to the final report of the IPPR Commission on Economic Justice, Prosperity and Justice, leading on the analysis in the report and recommendations relating to wealth, automation and labour markets.

She is Editor of IPPR's journal of politics and ideas, Progressive Review. Carys joined IPPR in 2015. She has previously worked at the RSA, the Social Mobility Foundation, the IFS and in charity impact evaluation. She holds an MSc Social Policy (Research) from LSE, and a BA in Politics, Philosophy and Economics from Oxford University.

@carysroberts

Julie Rozenberg

Senior Economist
for The World Bank Sustainable Development Group

Senior Economist for in the office of the Regional Director for Sustainable Development in Latin America and the Caribbean. She currently focuses on recovery strategies from the COVID-19 crisis, working with countries on building more sustainable and inclusive growth trajectories.

She is the author of many academic papers on climate change and development, and has contributed to World Bank flagship reports on climate change including Shockwaves and Decarbonizing Development and co-led two major reports on infrastructure entitled Beyond the Gap: How Countries Can Afford the Infrastructure They Need While Protecting the Planet and Lifelines: the Resilient Infrastructure Opportunity. Julie Rozenberg holds an engineering degree and a PhD in economics.

<https://blogs.worldbank.org/team/julie->

rozenberg
@julierozenberg

Farah Said

Assistant Professor at the Lahore
School of Economics

Assistant Professor at the Lahore School of Economics and a Research Fellow at the Centre for Research in Economics and Business. She studies dynamics of poverty and gender in LMICs.

Her current research investigates the effectiveness of community engagement and inclusive education in improving learning outcomes and psychosocial skills of students; and the role behavioral interventions in sustainability of alternative energy sources in rural settings.

Theigc.org/person/farah-said

Busi Sibeko

Researcher and Economist at the Institute for Economic Justice in South Africa

Economist and researcher at the Institute for Economic Justice (IEJ). She holds a Bachelor of Science in Economics from Duke University and a Masters in the Political Economy of Development from SOAS, University of London. Busi's current research focus is macroeconomic policy, including tax justice, fiscal and monetary policy, and participatory feminist budgeting to advance socio-economic rights. She considers herself a feminist political economist in training and is determined to be a part of unwinding structural injustice. She provides research support to the labour constituency within the National Economic Development and Labour Council (NEDLAC). She also sits on the steering committee of the Budget Justice Coalition (BJC) which is comprised of 14+ civil society organisations. She has been engaged in budget advocacy work in various capacities from training other activists to media engagements. Busi is the author of The Cost Austerity: Lessons for South Africa and is a co-author of A fiscal stimulus for South Africa.

@IEJ_SA

