Advancing equitable livelihoods in food systems: a UN DESA Global Policy Dialogue

Eradicating hunger and achieving food security remain major challenges for people everywhere. In 2021, we must scale up our efforts to secure adequate nutrition for everyone, generate equitable livelihoods and mitigate climate change.

To support the UN system's efforts towards eliminating hunger, securing decent work and achieving the SDGs, UN DESA is holding a Global Policy Dialogue on food system livelihoods in the context of demographic change and rural development.

Internationally renowned experts on food systems, population trends and rural development will discuss this urgent issue. The event also will serve as a UN Food Systems Summit Dialogue, informing the 2021 Summit process.

The event is free and open to the public. It will be held in English with live captioning available in English, French and Spanish. All are welcome!
