

Integrating migration into national development plans:

Towards policy coherence and achievement of the SDGs at national and global levels

Mainstreaming Migration into Policy Planning

DURING THE TRAINING

PRE-DEPARTURE

Ms. Sandra Kesse-Amankwa receives pre-departure orientation from Benedetta Mangialardo, Project Development and Reporting Officer of IOM Ghana.
© IOM Ghana 2018

“I work on policy formulation. What I hope to achieve from this training is to learn from others and to know their success stories and their challenges so that I can situate these within the context of Ghana”.

AFTER THE TRAINING

Ms. Sandra Kesse-Amankwa (Deputy Director, Plan Coordination; National Development Planning Commission, Ghana), © IOM Ghana 2018

“The workshop presented the importance of mainstreaming migration into development planning within the context of SDGs.

I had the opportunity to learn step-by-step approaches to mainstreaming migration in policy planning, vertical policy coherence between the local and national levels, project management and the setting of indicators for monitoring and evaluation.

Participants carried out group assignments using different participatory tools which encouraged knowledge sharing and made the training program very interactive and practical. It was easy to recollect the knowledge I had gathered.”

Ms. Sandra Kesse-Amankwa leads a group discussion at the IOM-ILO ITC training in Turin, © Sandra Kesse-Amankwa 2018

“Prior to the training, I did not fully appreciate the linkage between migration and the 2030 Agenda. As a result of the training, I have improved my understanding of the linkages. I hope to support the implementation of the prioritised migration issues at the local and national levels and to ensure coherence in policy implementation in Ghana”.