

Humanitarian Action for Children

unicef

State of Palestine

Children and families in the State of Palestine are exposed to conflict, violence and displacement, as well as the denial of access to livelihoods and basic services, including safe drinking water, adequate sanitation and health care. Across the State of Palestine, an estimated one in every two Palestinians—approximately 2.5 million people—will require humanitarian assistance in 2018.¹ Child protection concerns are widespread and children face high levels of violence, are victims of grave violations of their rights, and suffer from poverty and lack of opportunities. Over the past 10 years, the situation in Gaza has been exacerbated by the Gaza closure and three major escalations in hostilities. In 2017, daily power outages lasting for up to 20 hours devastated public infrastructure and disrupted the delivery of basic services. The signing of the Palestinian reconciliation agreement between the West Bank and Gaza in October 2017 has not yet yielded improvements for children. In the West Bank, children's access to services and opportunities are limited by territorial fragmentation, the separation wall and movement restrictions. Children in certain areas in the West Bank, including Area C and East Jerusalem, are experiencing home demolitions, forced evictions and detentions.

Humanitarian strategy

UNICEF and partners will continue to foster synergy between humanitarian and development assistance in the State of Palestine, while emphasizing emergency preparedness. UNICEF will support neonatal emergency health care, postnatal care, and early childhood development, focusing on children with developmental delays and disabilities. Given the deterioration in the water and sanitation situation and the ongoing energy crisis, UNICEF will provide safe drinking water through solar power, water tank rehabilitation and network upgrades. Households will be supported with drinking water taps, latrines, sewage connections and hygiene promotion activities. UNICEF will also support flood mitigation activities in high-risk areas. Strengthening child protection systems will remain a priority, including through case management and referrals, psychosocial support, legal aid and counseling, focusing on adolescents and addressing negative coping mechanisms. Monitoring and reporting on grave child rights violations will inform evidence-based advocacy for improved child protection. UNICEF will support children crossing checkpoints in the West Bank with protective accompaniment to ensure safer access to schools. Children will also benefit from educational supplies and remedial learning, as well as emergency preparedness activities targeting adolescents. UNICEF will continue its coordination role in the areas of water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH), education and child protection.

Results from 2017

As of 31 October 2017, UNICEF had US$11.8 million available against the US$24.5 million appeal (48 per cent funded).² Over the course of the year, UNICEF supported quality paediatric, neonatal and maternal health services through the provision of essential drugs and home-based counselling to mothers. Despite limited funding, UNICEF and partners improved access to safe drinking water and adequate sanitation for vulnerable households through the rehabilitation of water and sanitation structures. West Bank communities suffering from water scarcity benefitted from water tanks provided by UNICEF. In response to the electricity crisis in Gaza, UNICEF repaired WASH facilities and their associated generators and installed solar panels. The distribution of hygiene kits through e-vouchers is currently underway, as is water disinfection. Though limited funding challenged achievement of the targets, UNICEF provided child protection services, psychosocial support and case management support, including for gender-based violence, through 20 family centres in Gaza. More than 5,900 adolescents participated in life-skills and stress-relief activities, and more than 8,500 children and teachers in Area C of the West Bank received protective accompaniment. UNICEF cooperated with partners to assess the needs of vulnerable children, monitor grave violations of children's rights, and use the resulting evidence to inform advocacy.
