Statement for the International Day of Solidarity with the Palestinian People

29 November 2022

On the occasion of the International Day of Solidarity with the Palestinian People, the Parliamentary Assembly of the Mediterranean (PAM) wishes to reaffirm its unwavering support to the efforts of the international community for the achievement of a Two-State Solution in the Middle East.

Both Israel and Palestine are equal and founding Members of PAM, and hold Vice Presidencies in the PAM Political Bureau, which is responsible for facilitating a constant and constructive channel for dialogue, not only between Israel and Palestine, but also among all their neighbors in the Euro-Mediterranean and Gulf regions and beyond.

Through this dialogue, and in accordance with the relevant international resolutions, the Assembly came to a single and clear consensus: reach the Two-State solution is the only way for both peoples, Israelis and Palestinians, to achieve their legitimate aspirations to govern themselves, and to live side by side within safe and recognized borders, in peace and security.

Today, this process is going through more difficult times than ever. Political negotiations are stalled, the endless cycle of violence is showing no signs of abating, and humanitarian conditions face further deterioration. Since the beginning of this year, more than 150 people, both Israelis and Palestinians, have died in clashes and confrontation. This is unacceptable.

On this day of reflection and renewal of our commitments, PAM Member States reiterate their engagement to mobilize the political momentum for the respect of international agreements and the urgent need to resume efforts to reach a peaceful solution of the conflict.

No opportunity to revitalize the peace process can remain unexplored, and PAM will continue to assist the parties involved, and the UN, towards this universal goal.
