ATHLETE COMPLETES SWIM AROUND WORLD IN NEW YORK, TO BRING VOICES AGAINST POVERTY TO UNITED NATIONS SECRETARY-GENERAL

Since May 2010, Dominican Swimmer Marcos Díaz has swum across five continents to build global awareness and support for the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) – the set of promises world leaders have made to eradicate extreme poverty and its root causes by 2015. On September 15, his journey around the world will end in New York, when he swims from the Statue of Liberty to Gantry Park across from the United Nations. He will meet United Nations Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon at the Park, to present messages of support for the MDGs that he has collected from citizens around the world.

Date: September 15, 2010

Press arrival/ Set Up: 2:30 pm

Shot of Marcos completing his swim: 3:00 pm

Ceremony and press conference: 3:30 pm

Location: Gantry State Plaza Park, 474 48th Avenue, Long Island City, NY. Press Table will be located at Pier No. 1

For Accreditation Media Should RSVP to: Luz Andujar, Tel: 212-867-0833/34

The ceremony takes place just days before world leaders will gather at the United Nations on September 20-22 to review progress on the MDGs. These Goals were adopted by 189 world leaders from rich and poor countries, as part of the Millennium Declaration which was signed in 2000. They agreed to achieve the Goals by 2015.
